BOX ELDER HIGH SCHOOL

BRIGHAM CITY, UTAH

VOLUME 57

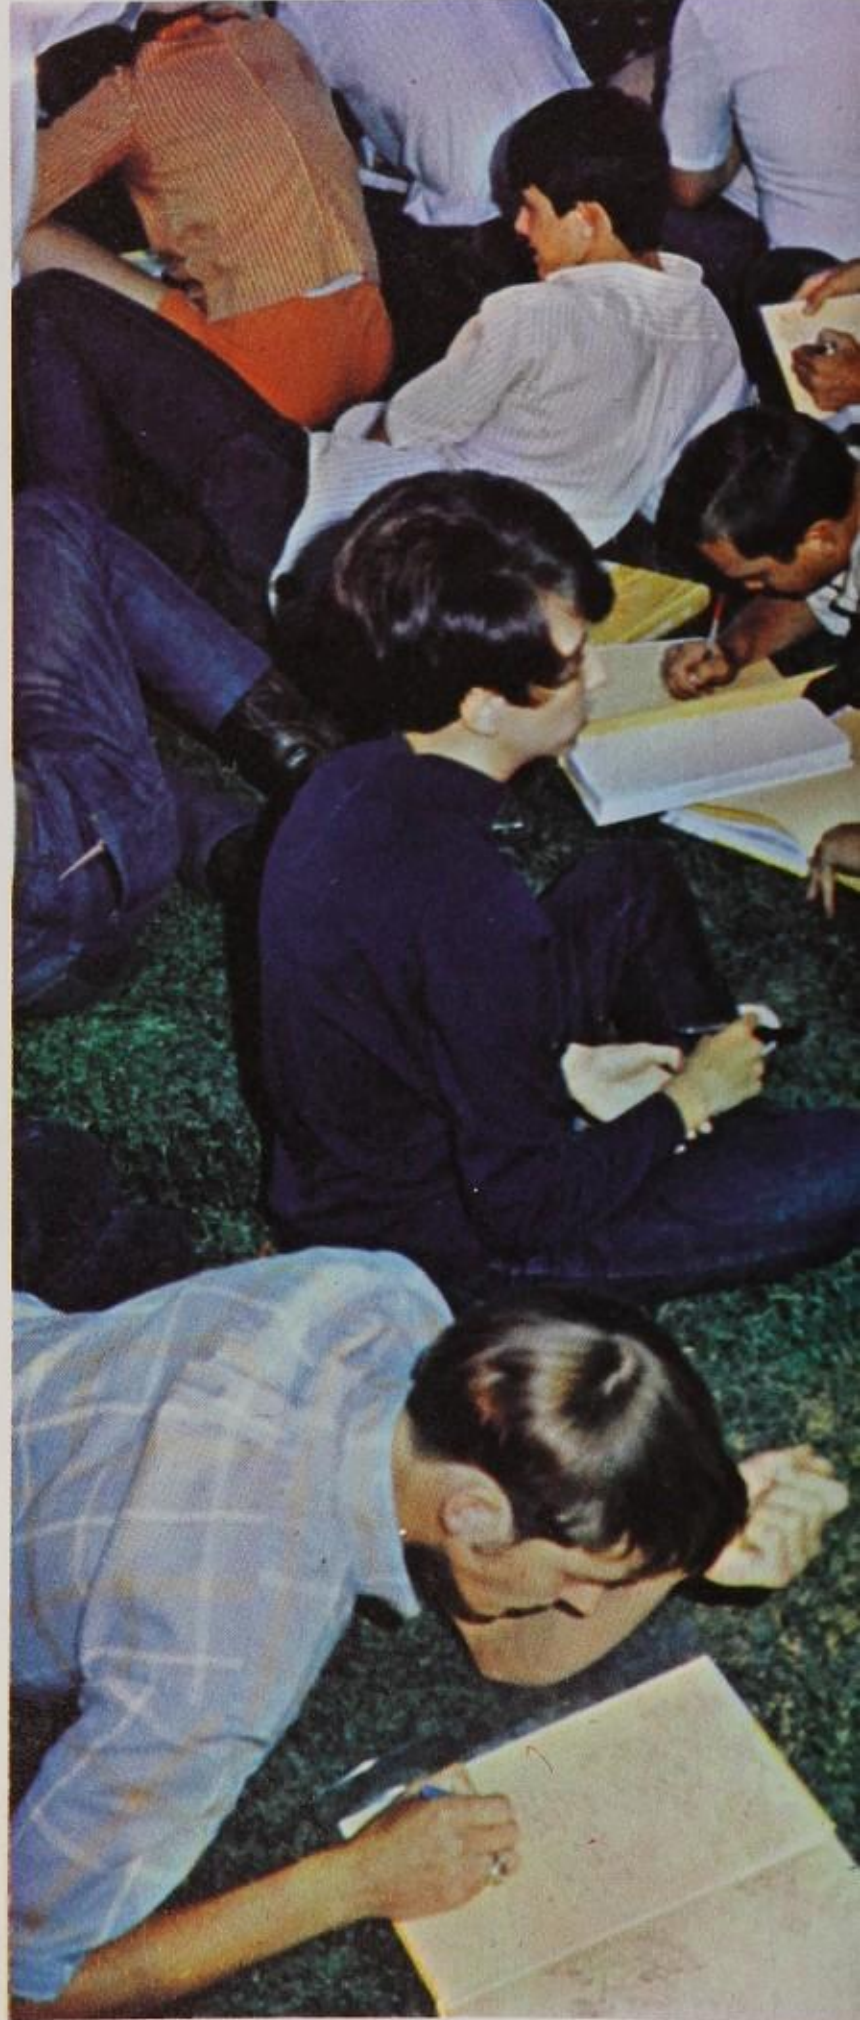

As men take giant leaps on the moon,
Each student takes his own steps
Trying to help mankind;
He stretches and expands his character,
Growing into a full person;
And though a single individual
He, too, adds to the school,
Making the school year 1969-1970 an output
Of not only group efforts but private ones as well.
Presented here is a record of the school life
Intensified by personal words and deeds,
And each student achieving and grasping
Those ideals and goals worthy to him
Vibrates unto the school and himself
PATTERNS . . .

Because of a need to communicate, to relate
 Themselves to other people and the environment,
 People fulfill a compelling urge to express
 Their introspective perceptions and emotions . . .
 The means of expression vary constantly;
 Just a word, a poem, a movement, or even a quiet face
 Can expound ideas to be redefined by others . . .

Synthesized action and insights result
 In success, happiness, and energy expended usefully;
 With common causes people translate strength
 Into accomplishments and merits,
 Reaching an end with hard-working means . . .

The combination of students' energized ideas,
Concentrated efforts, and achieved results
Mesh together into vibrant threads,
Tiny filaments which weave and interweave,
Spiraling into Patterns of Life . . .

STUDENTBODY

One unified, yet diversified group of people,
The studentbody creates school life.
These students, life-giving elements of classrooms,
Determine by their own attitudes and ideas
The value and nature of their year.
Singularly, a student can affect and project
His and the school's activities,
Often in subtle but far-reaching ways.
His lone influence can and does affect
Other people within the school.

Associated in organizations
The effects of students become more obvious,
Working and applying themselves together;
Their activities form an integral part of learning.
Yet, while forming the school life
They also evolutionize it, challenging and improving
The established activities for new unique ideas.
But be it by solitary or corporated efforts
They, the students, reflect Box Elder High School's PATTERNS...

Without exception, this year has been one of the greatest years ever. Seniors, juniors, sophomores, and freshmen, should think as the year closes, that they did everything possible to improve their school.

One must realize that each year affects the next. This year has formed a strong foundation for the years to come. You will accomplish much if you try to build for future years.

The hardest moment for a Studentbody President is when he feels so thankful and warm to everyone, but can't thank them all personally.

Thank you for the honor you gave me of serving you.

Brad Jensen

Serving as a Studentbody Officer this year has truly been a great experience. I would like to take this opportunity to thank you as a studentbody for this privilege.

Box Elder is a terrific school with a terrific studentbody. I hope each of us realizes we are all a part of something great, and to keep it great, we must each do our part.

These past four years, filled with sad and happy experiences, have really flown by. I'll always treasure my life as a "Bee".

Thanks again, and I'd like to wish each of you all the luck in the world.

Steve Hansen

It has been a great privilege to serve as a Studentbody Officer. This year has been filled with wonderful memories. I'll always remember the great enthusiasm and spirit which you as a studentbody have shown.

I would like to thank you for the loyal support and help you have given us. I have felt that you were behind us in everything we did.

My thanks go to the faculty, administration, representatives, Student Council, clubs, cheerleaders, and especially the studentbody for being "tops"! I wish Box Elder continued success in future years.

Peggy Anderson

Being able to participate in student government and being an active part of Student Council has greatly enriched my life. I wish each of you could have this same opportunity.

Box Elder is a school to be proud of. Other schools hold us in high esteem, with a decent respect for name and person.

I have strived to do my part in bringing a closer working relationship between student and administration. But the real responsibility is up to you. Our government is by the student.

Thank you, Box Elder, for giving me the privilege of being your Secretary.

Pam Sederholm

Although being only four people, Box Elder's studentbody officers influenced the school year more than anyone else in molding it into a challenging and progressive year. With the experienced counsel of Mr. Gourley these individuals planned and effected each major school event with success and student support.

Unforgettable memories—memories of football games, dances, pep rallies, friends and teachers—will follow the seniors as they leave high school life at Box Elder. Many of these memories are special remembrances of the past year.

A new activity for the senior class, a ticket drive, helped raise money for the class fund.

Ending another great year at Box Elder High School, the seniors anxiously awaited graduation and the many activities associated with it. The Purple and White Dance together with the senior class all-night party was a final farewell to the graduating class of 1970.

Along with participating in the regular activities of Box Elder High School, the junior class was also responsible for special projects and assignments.

Painting the town during Homecoming Week was one of these activities. Juniors, decked with cans and paint brushes, proceeded to paint colorful sayings on sidewalks of Brigham City. The Junior Prom was another responsibility of the junior class.

During the year, they learned to accept the challenge, characteristic of leadership. Applying knowledge, they helped to make this a good school year.

Feelings of belonging were established by each member of the sophomore class this year, as they began to participate in sports, clubs, and other activities.

The lighting of the "B" during the homecoming game was just one of the activities of the sophomore class. They sponsored the Christmas Dance and also the Purple and White Dance held at the end of the year in honor of the senior class.

Through the accomplishment of their goals, they established the feeling of achievement and success.

Freshmen

The beginning of a new life—new school, new friends, and perhaps, new ideals—was what the freshman class experienced through the past year. Each in their own way, they responded to these new feelings and new surroundings.

One of their first contributions to high school life, as a class, was the traditional bonfire held during homecoming week. The presentation of the Sadie Hawkins Dance was also one of their activities.

During the year the freshmen have expressed their desire to belong and have become an accepted part of Box Elder High School.

People declaring their ideas,
 Their fears, loves, hates, feelings,
 About the world in which they live
 and the infinite universe which lives within them,
 The Hive is for this.
 The creator who cares and feels need for expression,
 Examines the many facets of his self
 Perhaps in the crevices and ridges
 Of sculptured rock lies his entity,
 Or in the words of poems and stories
 Lies his soul;
 Maybe a thought transmitted into a picture
 Represents life.
 Through whatever form may exist his ideas,
 They must be pondered and applied;
 They must be studied and taken to the mind.
 For through them he expresses the essence of his PATTERNS . . .

HIVE

We cry for control of the masses
 And in the same breath search for eternal life.
 The heart, that engine of life,
 Takes a new home
 And crowds the young and yet unborn.
 But why should we stop there?
 We'll take the brain of one man
 And give it to another.
 But who's to decide who has lived and
 Who has died.
 And while lying in the sterile white recovery room,
 The recipient opens his eyes and asks,
 "Who am I?"

What to Do?

Here I am, God,
I am alone,
I've never really been alone before,
But now I want to talk to you.

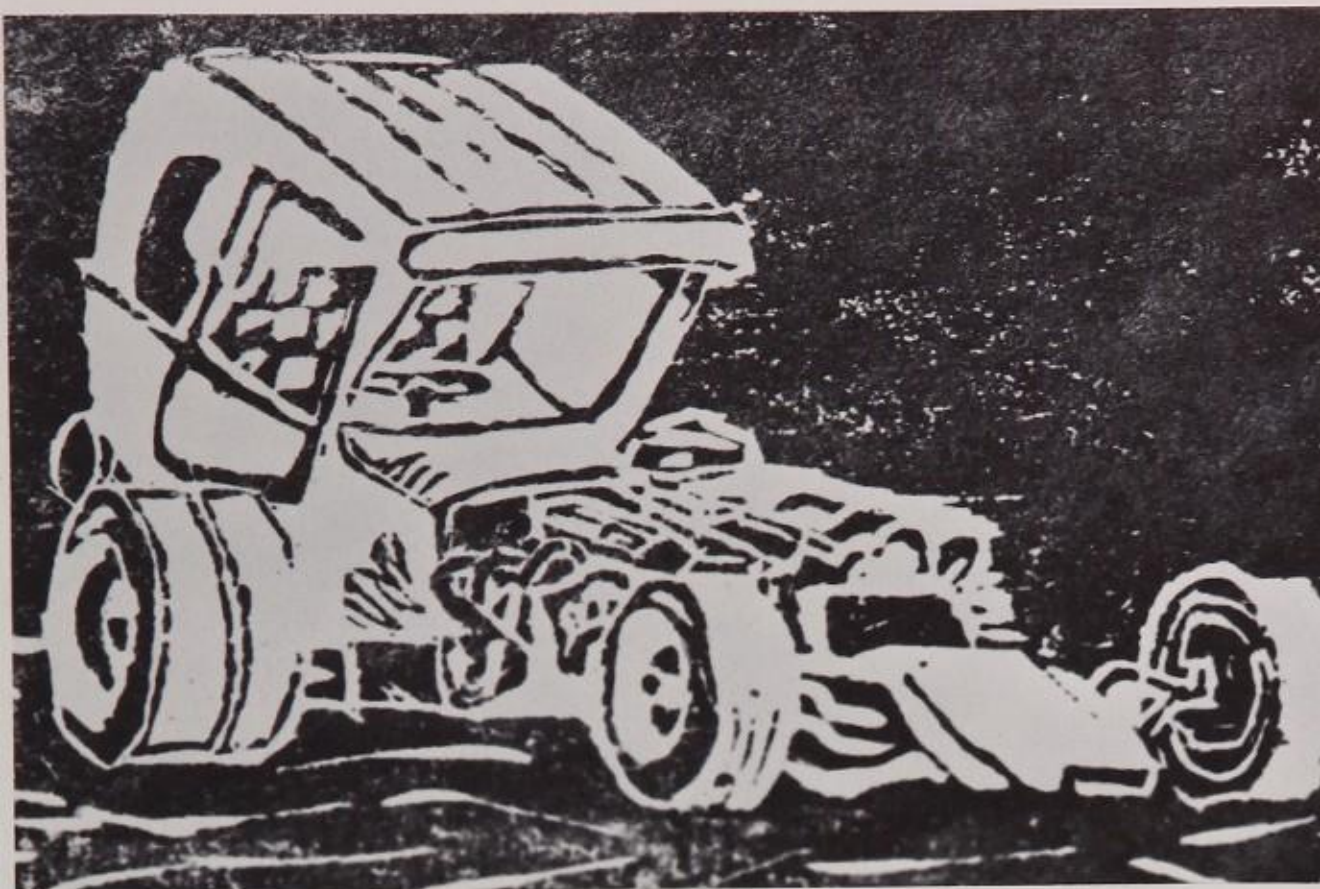

You see, God,
Once I had it made,
Now I've got nothing
But a handful of memories.

Here's what's bad about it, God,
The world really did turn against me,
But God, I did a sinful thing,
I let this cruel old world sit on me,
And now I'm underneath,
Pretending to be happy
And pretending to get out from where I am.

Actually, God,
I'm awfully confused,
Pray tell, what should I do?

Life

Like a child,
I reach forth my hand
To a candle and receive pain.

Like a child,
I rush into the boiling surf
Not knowing how to swim.

Like a child,
I listen to the growling thunder
And tremble with fear.

Like a child,
I see a purple pansy
And crush it in my joy.

Like a child,
I touch a furry bumble bee
And receive sharp pangs of hurt.

Like an old man,
I walk in the rain
And grow wise.

War

Around life's corners,
Lurks mysteries experienced but untold,
Of weeping women
And damned souls,
These bends and curves
Along a straightened path,
See only sobs and tears,
Screams of those who burn,
Hand reaching up
Out of the depths of watery deaths,
Bullets burning through tortured flesh,
And strong men weeping, sorry for themselves,
When you see a soldier and the devil
Walking together around the road's twisted trail,
You know another man of war
Has sold his soul for peace.

Loosing Hope

An enveloping comfortness
Engulfs my mind
And
My thoughts ease out
And mingle together into a long straight line

Serenity takes me by the hand
And
With childlike confidence
I follow.
A loud voice, a sharp-word, and
A hurt tear collide
Behind my eyes and shatter
All my hope
I have lost.

According to the rules
I'm happy, I'm sad
Make love, fight my duels
Its been good Its been bad

If this would just mellow out
I would have no reason to shout
Brilliant mixed colors or any
Soft food for the mind
Is if you seek it in you so kind

My mind does wander in the happy valley
I hear the wall sing
It does smile eastward musically
As if to touch the soul of a King

There just waiting for you, the crown.
It awaits in its splendor glowing,
You're almost up don't go down.
Fascinated by the glow your spirit is flowing.

This indeed to all of you is a meaningless story
But if you see beyond yourself
You will remember the glory of happiness
If nothing else —

Not to live for mere joys
But for my naked curiosity
I seek and buy the exciting toys
Not slow and sluggish but with a jets velocity.

WITHIN

Turn around, look within
See the world around us,
Reach out, touch me
See the fire in my eyes—
I need you.
We are what we are.
No more—No less. Too Much?
No!
Take my hand and then
Open the door to your heart.
Turn around, look within
See the love between us.
Reach out, know me—
See the you in my eyes . . .
I want you.
I am what you are.
No more—No less. Too much?
No!!
Take my heart and then
Open the door to your life.
Soon it will be ours.
Turn around, look within
See the sky above us.
Reach out, touch it
See the us in the sky—
I am you.
Let's be what we may.
No more—No less. Enough?
Yes!!
Take my self and then
Open the door to heaven.
Now it is ours—forever.

NIGHT AND DAY

Morning breaks,
The world to life awakes,
But is day a dream
And night the reality?
Does daylight reveal
And nighttime conceal—
Or does man make
Night into day
As he dreams?
Is life really so different from death?

Day and night—
A world apart,
Two men dream
One in day and
One in dark and
Who's to say
Which is more real.

But, soon it tarnishes
And a vital piece has Vanished.

SO SORRY

So sorry, my little mother,
Who worked so hard today,
For leaving you to do the work
And running off to play.

But the world is bright and exciting;
There's so many things to do.
It's just so hard to stay home
And do some things for you.

The world is new and I am young
And like a butterfly,
There is so very little time
So many things to try.

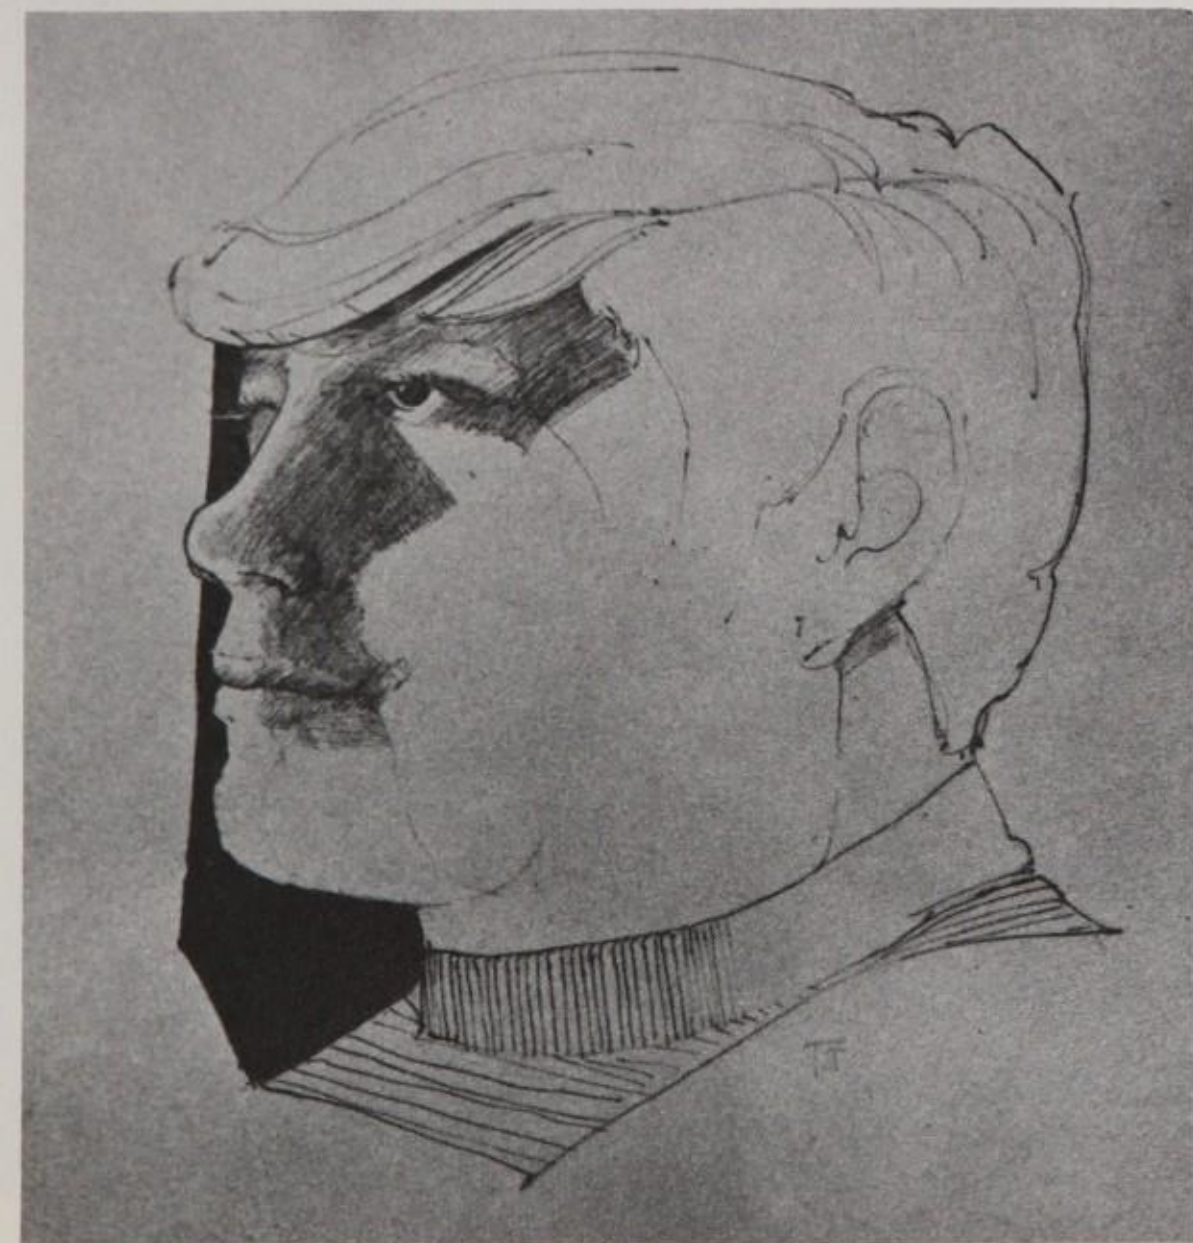

I want to learn some math
And how to sing a tune.
So sorry, little mother,
But I've no time for you.

The world is new and I am young
Caught up in the swirl of me.
Exciting things are going on
And there's a special he.

Now I'm no longer quite as young.
That part of my life is through.
Now I have lots of time, but you
Can't give me something to do.

I thought there was so little time
And so very much to do.
That while you were here, I didn't take
The time, little mother, for you.

FLOWERS OF THE DAWN

The pilot strained into the blue
In quest for something faint,
For a plane perched high in the halls of air,
For Germany's ensign saint.

He rode on biplane wings of cloth
That cut the sky in two,
He dodged among the anxious clouds
And pierced the silent blue.

'Twas Britain flying high this day
In 1916 dawn,
The Sopwith pilot found his mark
And slowly throttled on.

Three scarlet pawns, 4000 feet,
His eyes had met their goal,
Britain banked and dived its nose,
The bells began to toll.

The hazy clouds opened wide
The morn burst forth in flame,
Neither rising sun nor crimson Hun
Knew the Sopwith came.

His machine guns spewed their lethal lead
A German father burned,
The Sopwith spun and flashed again
A lad his death now earned.

But the third tore back at Britain's life
And almost caught her tail,
The Sopwith screamed and fled away
And German lost her trail.

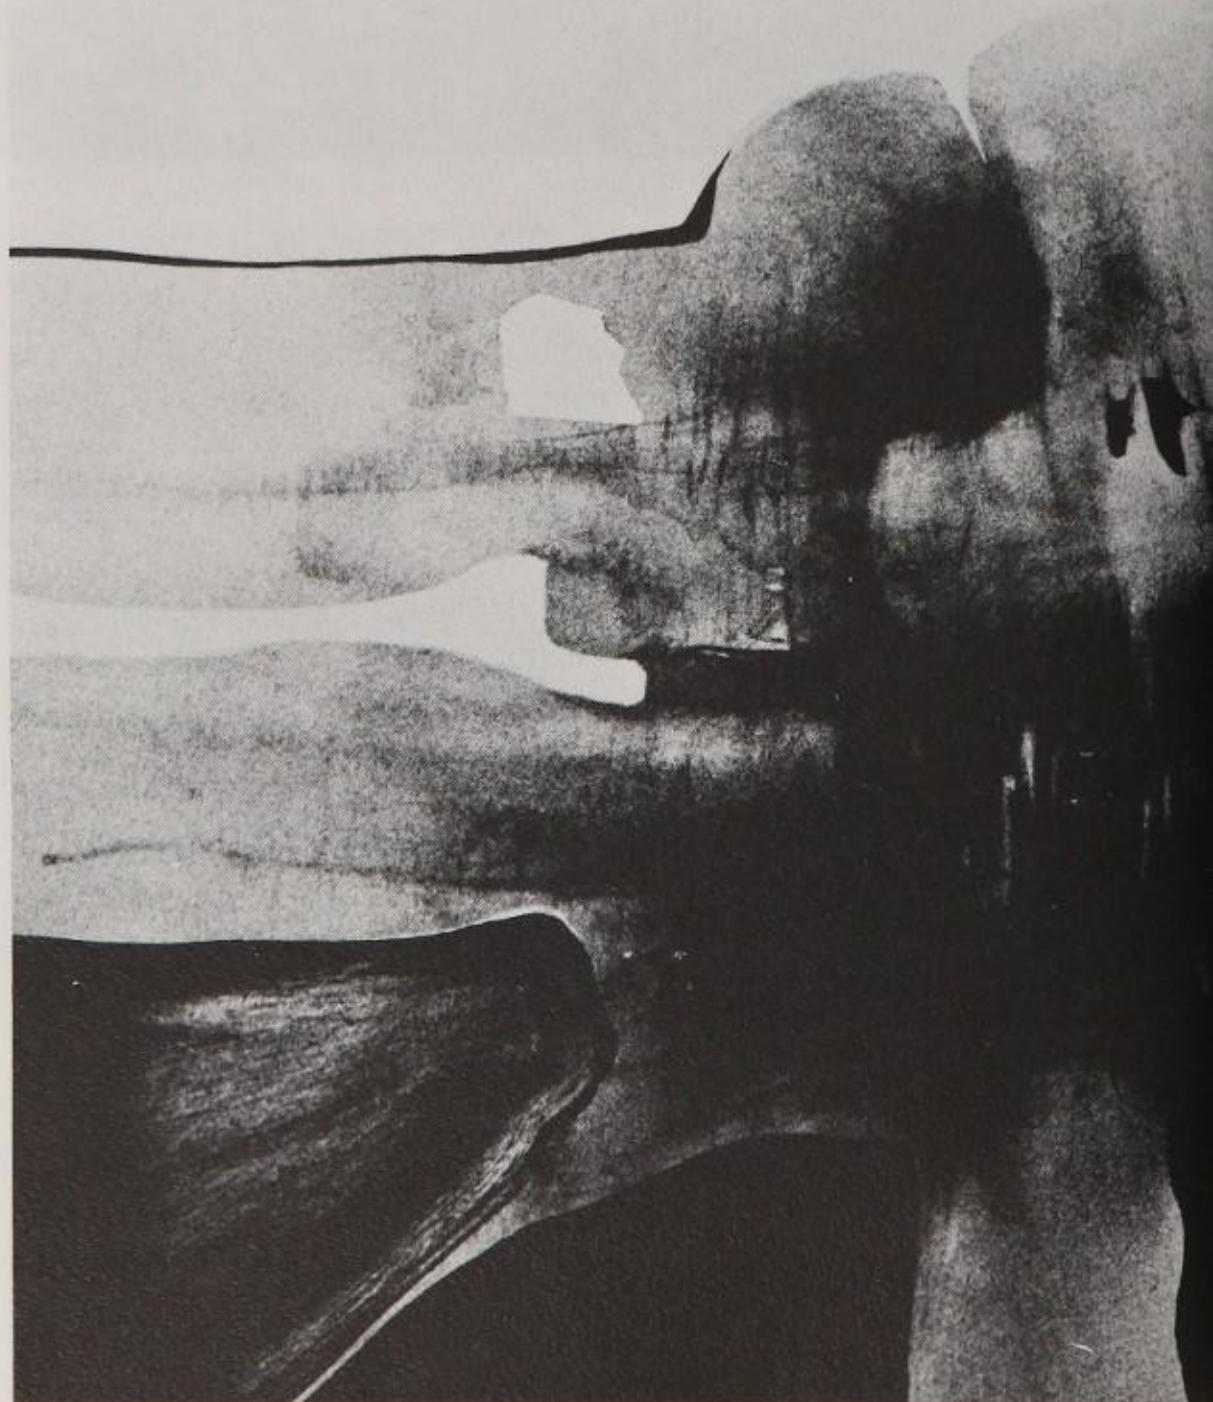

The world lay calm, awakened green
The earth yawned to the skies,
A German boy gazed out farm doors
Looking up with wondering eyes.

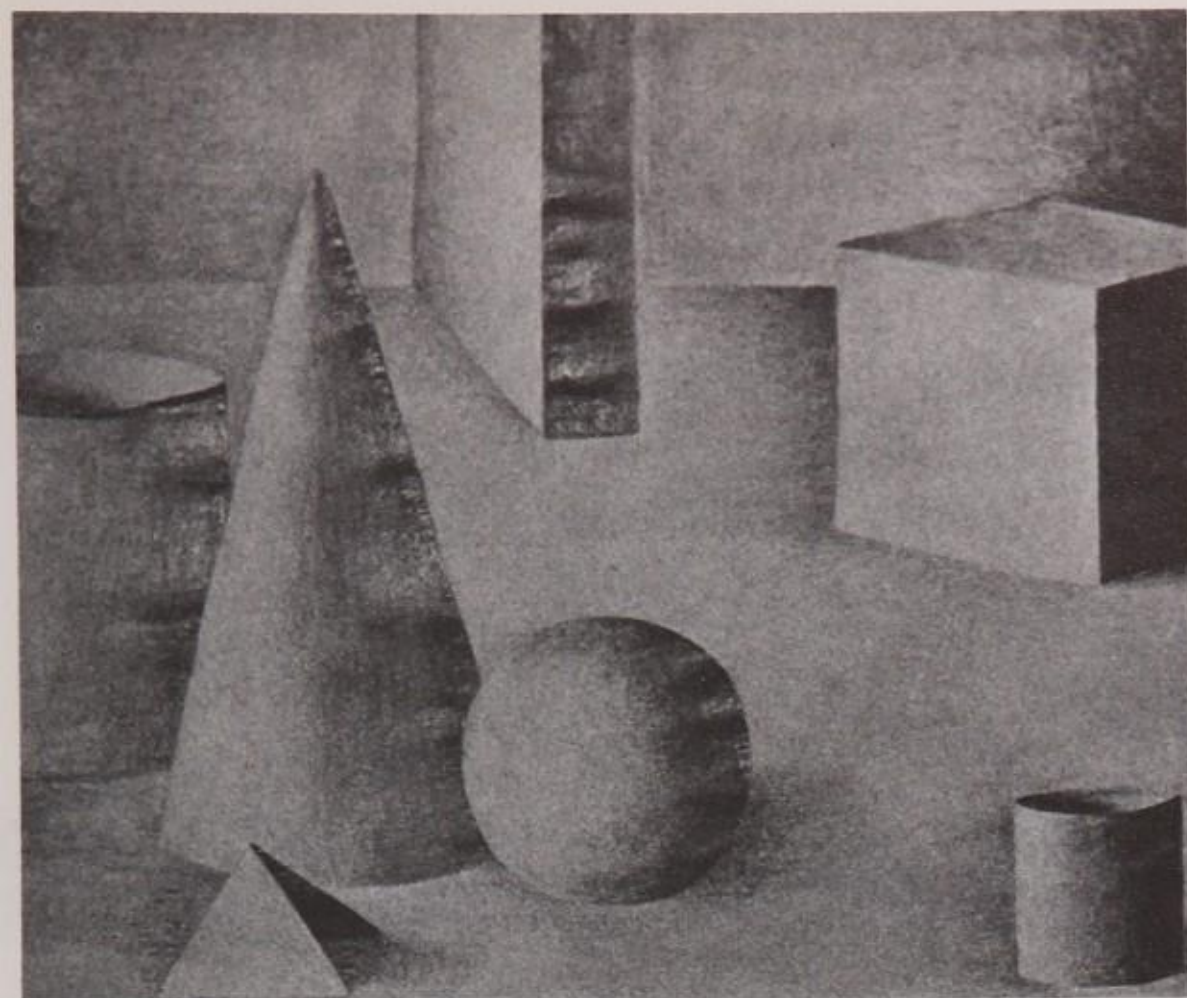

The mighty sun crossed its arc
And left the fields sunswept,
The airstrip gleamed in faded light
Where a Sopwith pilot wept.

The evening rays touched the hills
And bathed in red the land,
Where two vermillion flowers grew
Among the glittered sand.

The German father was my dad
My brother was the lad,
And I, the Sopwith ace this day
Chose freedom: great and sad.

Glenn Dickey

And he lives a simple life
In the country,
Climbing the hills,
Marveling at nature's wonders.
Man, what a weirdo!

He gets his kicks from
Football games and outdoor sports.
Smoking marijuana and dropping acid
Are not his "turn- ons".
Man, what a weirdo!

He can dig Beethoven or the Beatles,
Shakespeare or McKuen.
And he's not afraid that by cutting his hair
He'll lose his identity.
Man, what a weirdo!

He loves.
He respects his parents.
He believes in America and still salutes
"Old Glory".

He married the woman he loves.
Man, what a weirdo!

Then he walked on foreign soil
Never to see his fine young son.
He loved, he lived, he died
To give his son a place to grow.

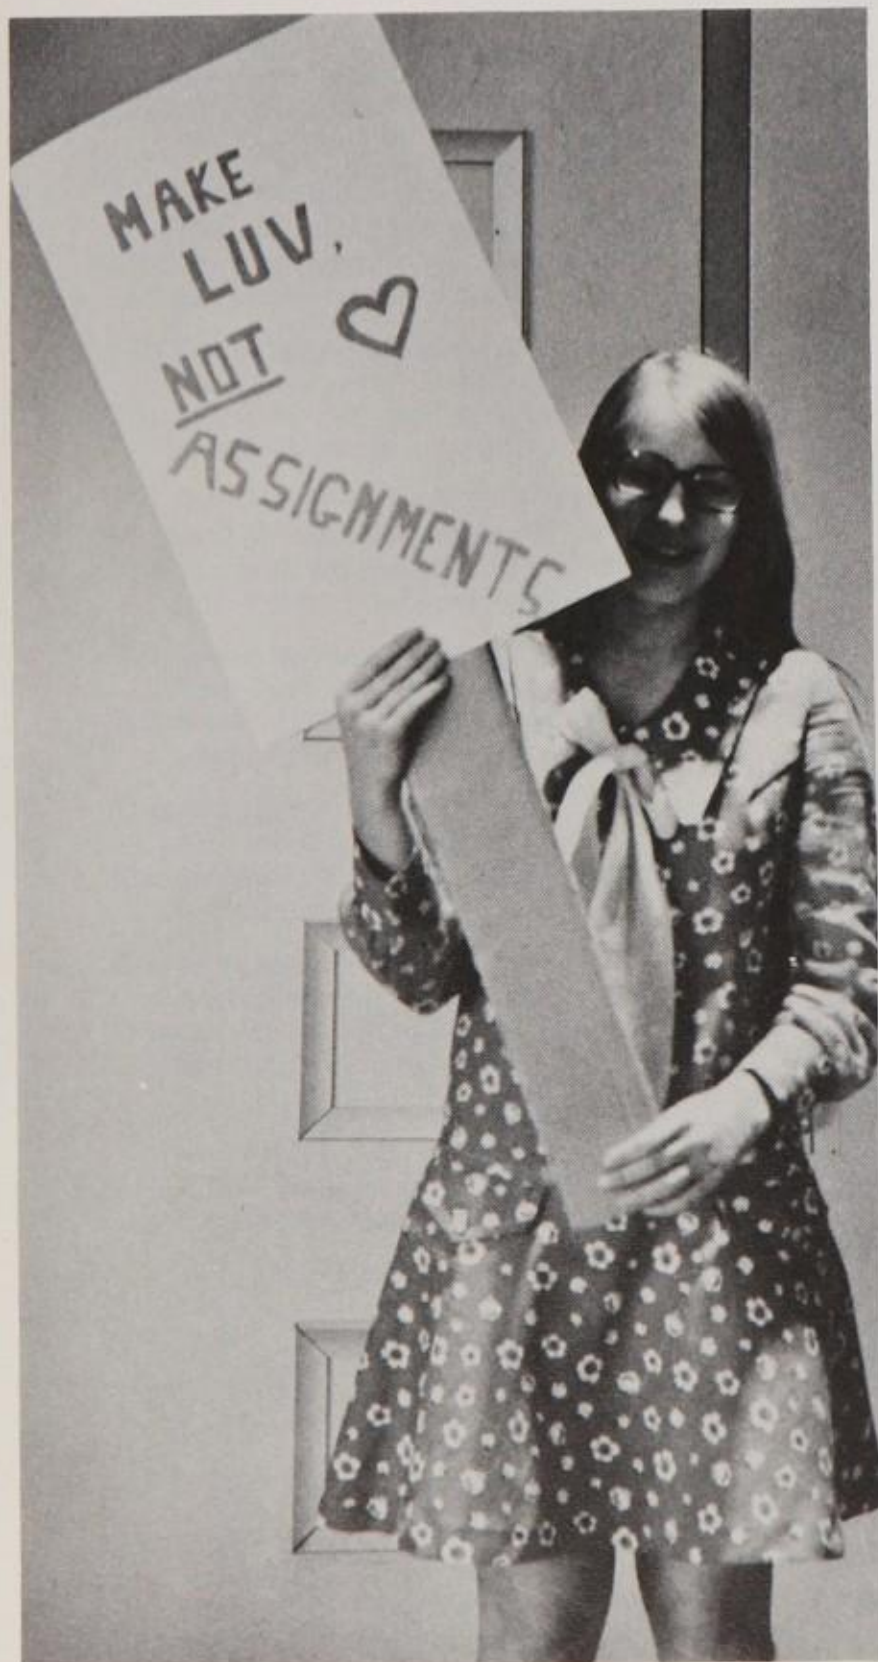

And he lives a simple life . . .

You strive for better life
Claiming to be a "brave New World".
Reach out and take that which
You claim is yours.
Don't be afraid.
You came in peace.
But then, didn't Hitler?

Administration coordinated departments

The administration worked in coordination with the school in the planning of the school's activities and lunch program. The school board helped solve the problems of running a school and advised the administration.

Mr. Nichols, Principal of Box Elder for two years, kept the school running smoothly with the help of the rest of the administration.

Mr. Gourley, Vice-Principal, helped the Student Council and Studentbody Officers with student problems. Mr. Stoker, new administrative aide, also helped with student attendance.

Aiding students in registering, administering tests, and handling class adjustments were the main jobs of the counselors.

They also were on hand to help students with both school problems and personal problems.

Under the direction of Mr. Leon Johnson, the counseling department completed its job successfully and efficiently.

Secretaries

expertly maintained efficiency

Office, attendance, counselor, and library secretaries all helped a day at Box Elder run smoother. Working in various parts of the school, they handled large amounts of mental and paper work. They also kept a record of absent students, arranged appointments, ran the library, and helped the administration. Their need and value became very evident throughout the year.

dedicated workers

Bus drivers, janitors, and cooks played a large part in running Box Elder High School.

Transporting students to and from school every day was only part of the job of the bus drivers. They also took students to games, on field trips and to other activities.

Janitors kept the school in running condition and were on hand to remedy any problems that arose around the school.

The cooks prepared nutritious and well-balanced meals for the students at lunch and also served breakfast in the mornings.

links the home and school

Promoting a better relationship between parents and teachers was the purpose of the Parent-Teacher Association.

Dr. George J. Kidd, currently on the staff of the L. D. S. Institute of Religion at Logan, spoke to parents and teachers about drugs and their effects at a meeting sponsored by the Parent-Teacher Association.

Through regular P.T.A. meetings, parents were kept informed of students activities and problems. The P.T.A. awarded the traditional scholarship to an outstanding senior student.

English

tool of enlightenment

Box Elder's students learned to understand the English language and use it correctly and effectively through classes of the English department. All teachers emphasized basic fundamentals such as grammar, literature, and writing in order to give the students a complete view and background of the language.

Being very progressive the department offered a variety of opportunities. The students could receive more individualized help in Applied English classes or expand their own ideas of the language in the Advance Placement Program. They could also learn drama first-hand by attending plays at neighboring colleges and universities or travel to a summer Shakespearean Festival held annually at the College of Southern Utah in Cedar City, Utah.

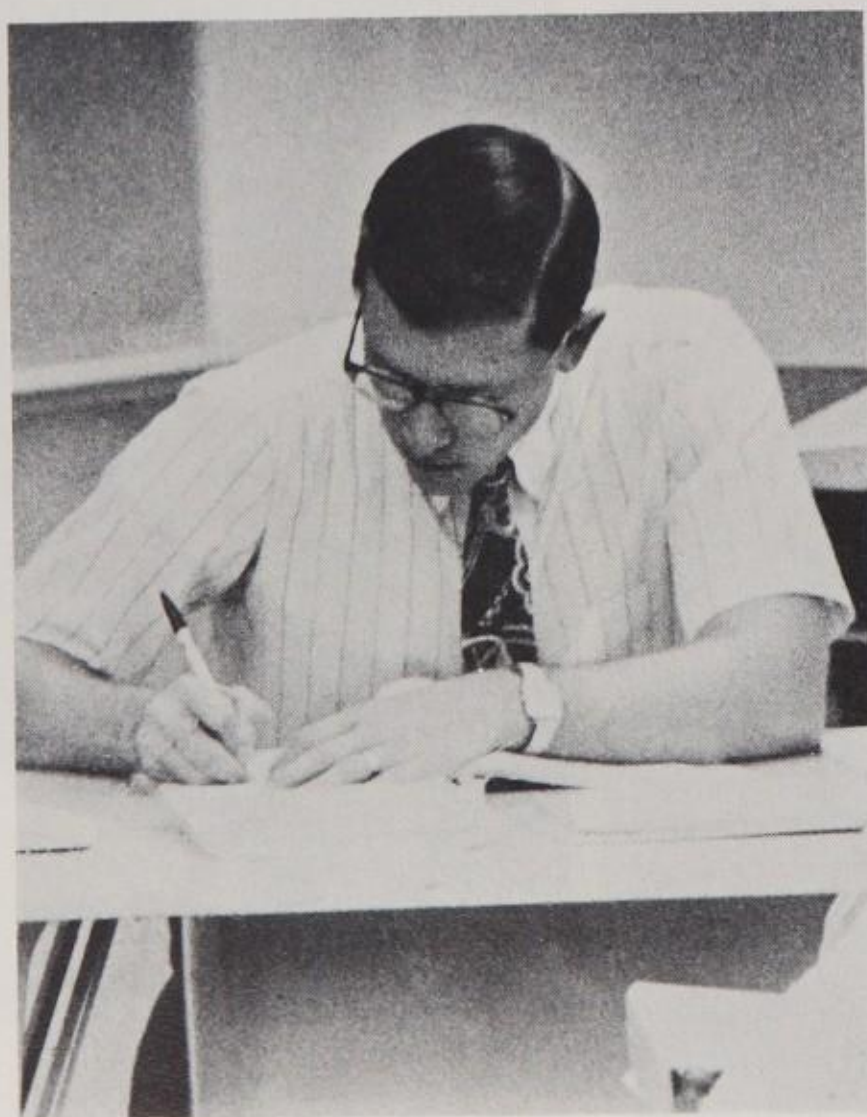

Mr. Jordan Larsen led the department and planned its general curriculum. He, however, could not alone take credit for the good year. Other teachers also contributed their time and efforts to the achievement of the department. With this cooperation between teachers, students benefited from their work.

Business preparation for jobs of the future

Preparing students for the business world was the purpose of the business department. Typing, Shorthand, Office Practice, and Office Machines were some of the classes which taught students the needed skills of an office. Students learned to operate comptometers, calculators, adding machines and others commonly used in business.

Ridd Grover headed the department with an experienced staff of business teachers.

Foreign Languages

narrows communication gap

When the need for world understanding is at its greatest, Box Elder High tried to bridge the gap between nations in its own way through the foreign language department.

Mr. Bingham, Mr. Chipman, Mrs. Christensen, and Mr. Hust taught Spanish, French, and German classes with the aid of an excellent language lab. Their students successfully competed at the language fair at Utah State University. Teachers also sponsored summer tours to Mexico and France to enable students to apply their present knowledge and learn the language from native speakers.

Teaching courses which range from basic math to college calculus, Box Elder's mathematics department covered a large scope of knowledge.

Mr. Johnson, instructing second year algebra, trigonometry, and calculus, headed this fine department. His special calculus class gave several students the privilege to earn college credit in the Advance Placement Program.

Several other instructors, however, also exposed students to the latest concepts in solving numerical equations and analytical problems. They helped make a strong force which challenged students to learn and understand mathematics.

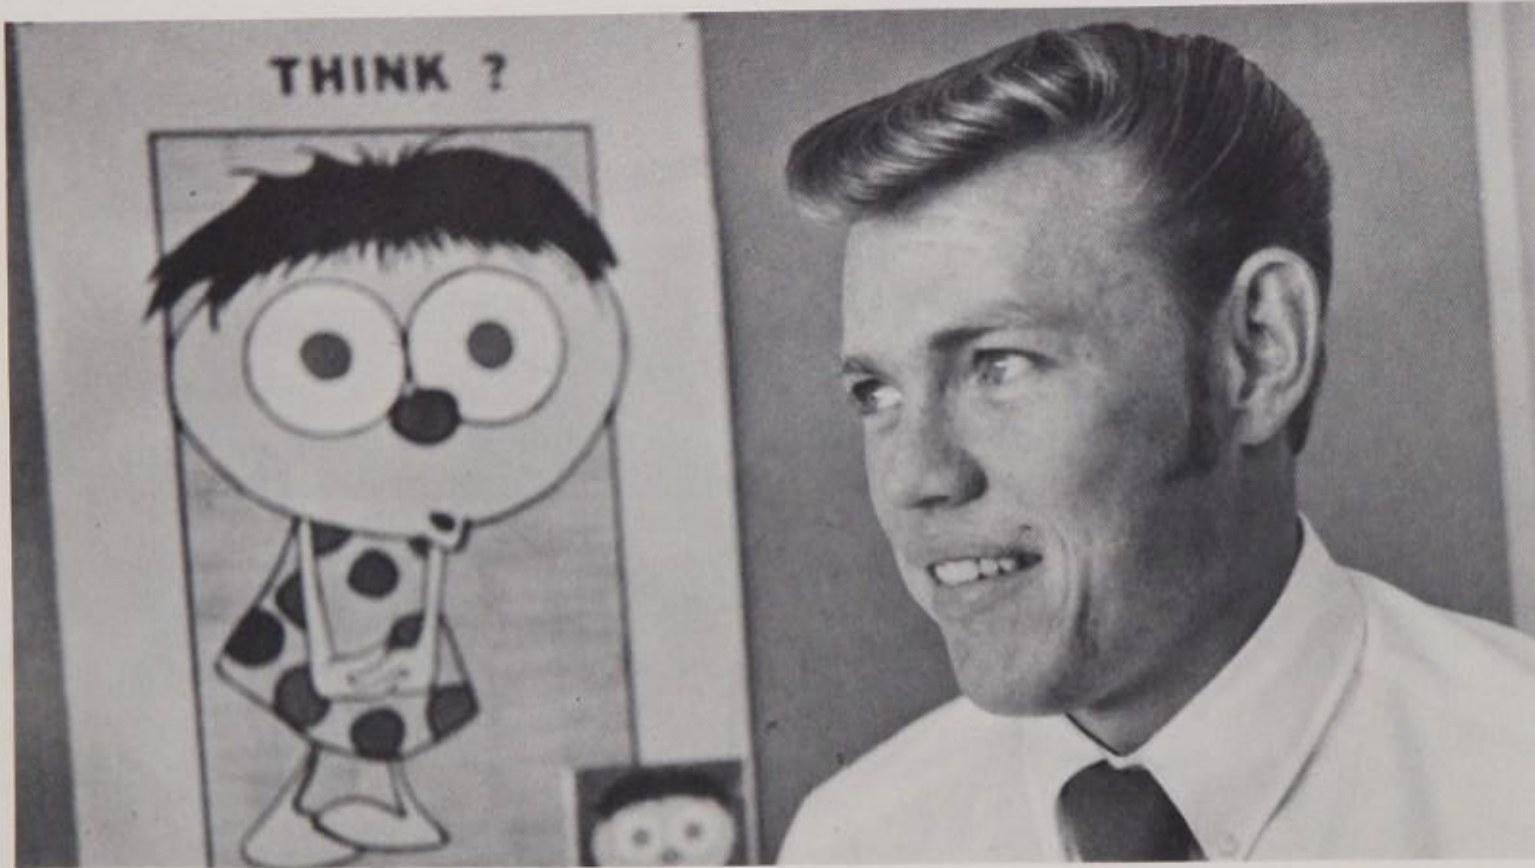

Several students not only met that challenge but surpassed it and tested their knowledge against other students' abilities in the Utah State Math Contest held annually at Brigham Young University.

Natural Science

fields yet unconquered

Knowledge of the sciences, logical attitudes toward solving problems, and a thirst for further learning were the ideals which the science department hoped to endow upon its students. The teachers used several methods to reach their goals. Controlled experimentation in the well-equipped labs and individual research stimulated the initiative of the student. Also department head, Mr. Robert Wendel, reorganized the Science Club for interested students. Classes taught at Box Elder included biology, physiology, physics, and an Advanced Placement chemistry course.

Social Studies

source of tomorrows' answers

Past and present history, both foreign and domestic, was taught by teachers in the social science department.

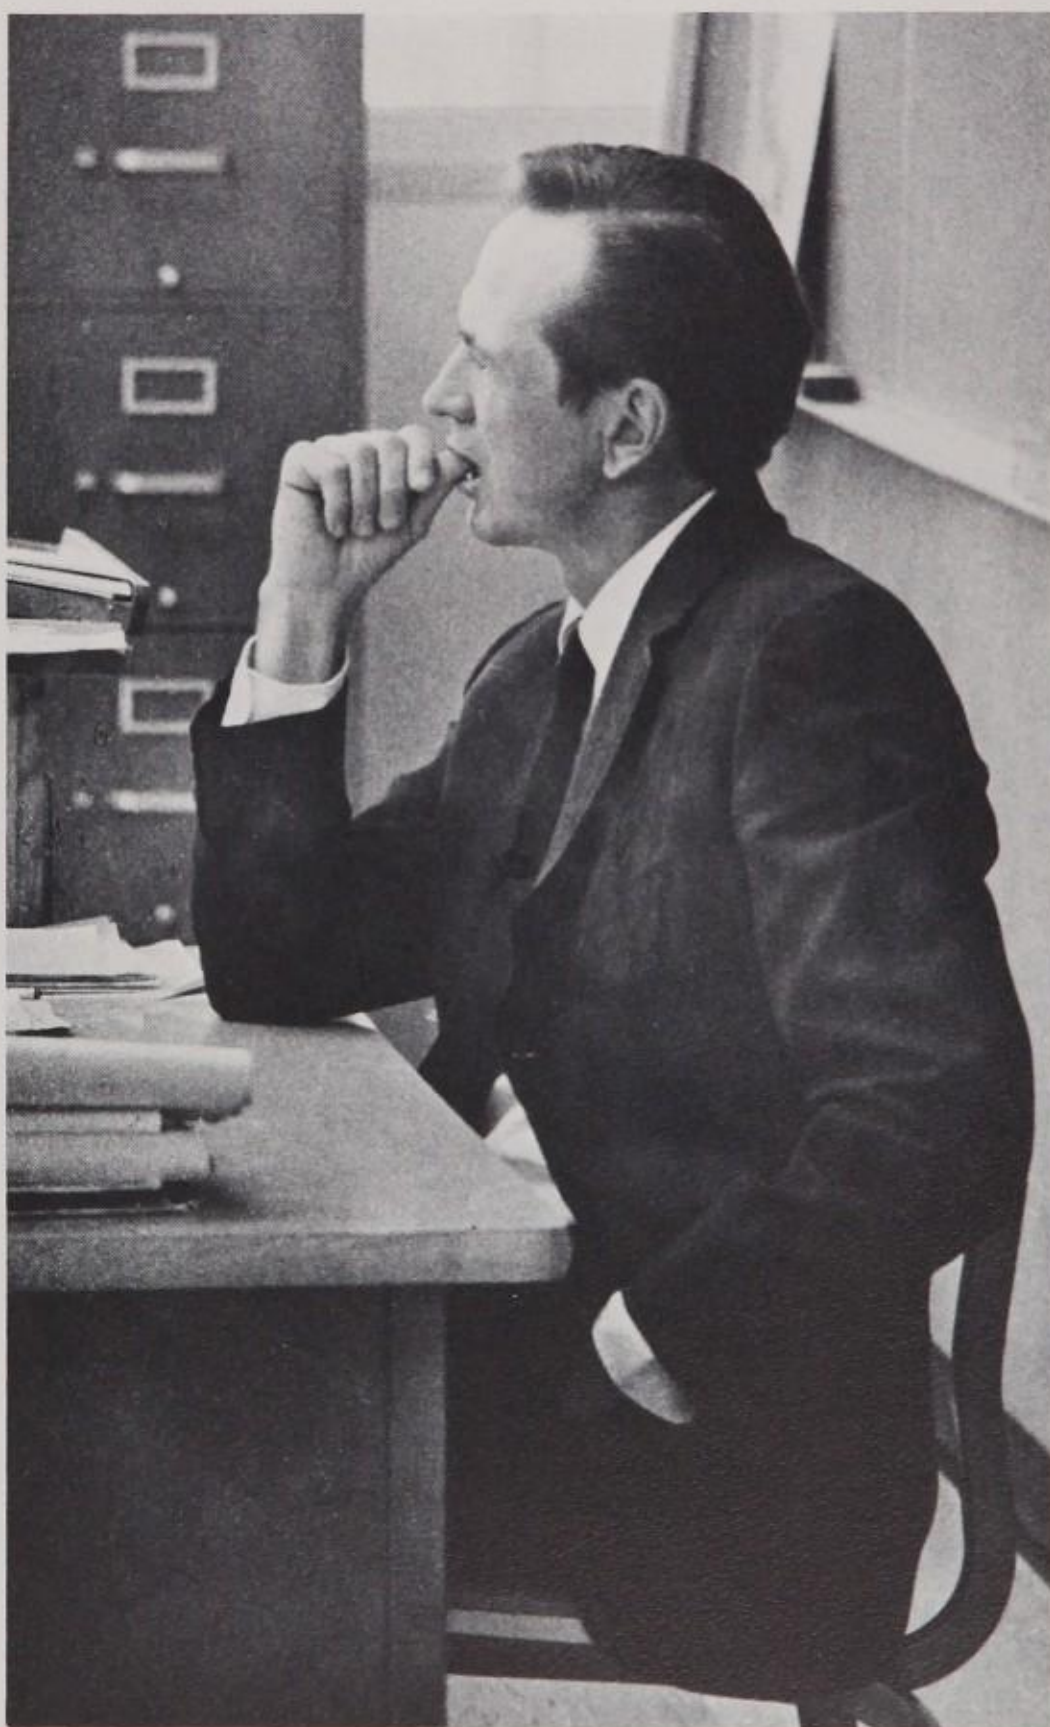

Headed by D.A. Olsen, the department strove to help students understand world relations.

Some of the classes offered by this department were World History, American History, Economics, and American Problems.

By studying history, leaders of tomorrow can realize the mistakes of yesterday's leaders and perhaps shape a better future with this knowledge.

Right: Thumb in mouth, Mr. Olsen reviews his mental list of "scare tactics" for his up-coming Halloween crowd.

Fine Arts

media for creativity

Students interested in expressing their talents in music and art were offered a variety of classes in the fine arts department.

Art classes and teachers helped students express their creativity through their art work. Some of the better work done by students was used in the display case at the high school.

Band and orchestra were taught by Earl Swenson and Wes Boman taught chorus and madrigals.

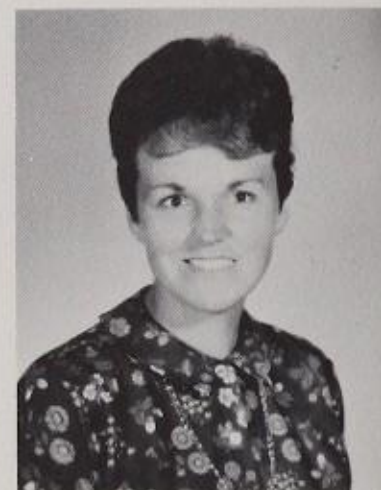

Chorus students presented a pop concert and also participated in the Happy Holidays production.

Speech and Drama

promoted self-expression

Students with speaking or acting ability were able to express their talents in speech and drama classes. Their talents were displayed in five major productions held this year.

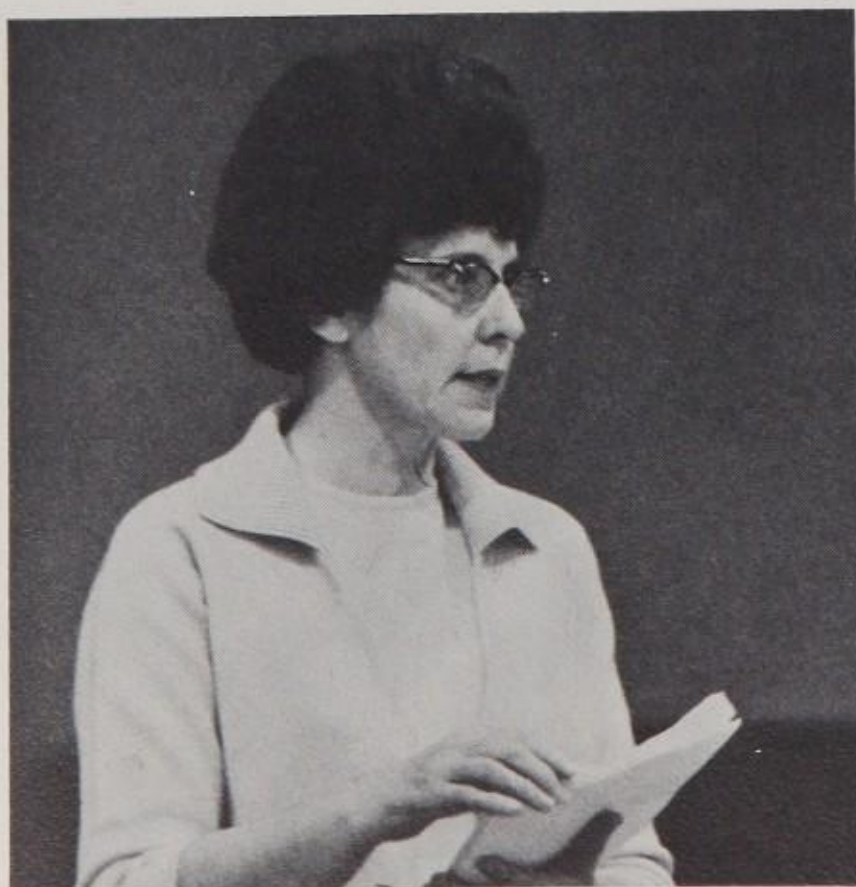

"The Wizard of Oz", this year's Children's Theatre production, was the first play of the year. "Happy Holidays" and "The Glass Menagerie" were the next productions. This year's musical, "The Music Man", involved both the drama and music departments. "The Robe", the Easter play was one of the largest productions at Box Elder this year.

Marcus Weaver
Special Education

Mentally handicapped students progressed markedly towards becoming useful members of society in the special education department. Mr. Weaver, new to Box Elder, taught this state controlled program, helping these special students develop new skills and participate in the learning process. They attended regular classes besides their own, receiving both an academic and vocational education. Remaining in school, they greatly brightened their future lives.

Vocational Arts

training for the future

The vocational arts department helped students develop vocational skills to be used in work or as prerequisites for trade school after graduation. The teachers of this department headed by Mr. Robert Olsen achieved this by explaining the ideas and concepts of the material then allowing the students to apply the concepts practically in their own projects.

Ag Science

modernized farming

Because farming has become so vital to the world, the importance of agriculture can not be emphasized enough. The agricultural science department, dealing with this essential knowledge, introduced students to mechanized farming. Mr. Hyer, department head, and the other teachers instructed students in the values of this expanding industry.

Drivers' Ed

stressed safety by application.

Comprehension of driving techniques and safety precautions are a prerequisite to actual control of an automobile. Completion of a semester of classroom studying is necessary before students are able to actually drive a car. After completing classroom study the students train for six hours each with an instructor in one of the training cars.

Responsible for teaching students driving skills are Clare Bradshaw, Carl Beckstead, Von Ritchie, and Douglas Stoker. Each one did his part to help promote greater safety on the highway.

basic unit of home life.

Cooking, sewing, homeliving, and child care were taught by Miss Moody, Miss Memmott, Mrs. Smith, and Mrs. Allred.

Students in the cooking phase learned how to make foods more appealing. Those in sewing learned how to choose and make clothes that fit their personality. Others learned how to take better care of a child and home.

obtained muscular coordination.

Students required physical development as well as mental growth to complete their well-rounded education. The physical education department offered classes in which students could do this. Engaged in physical competition and exercise, students trained in various sports and skills and developed a sense of good sportsmanship and fair play in the classes.

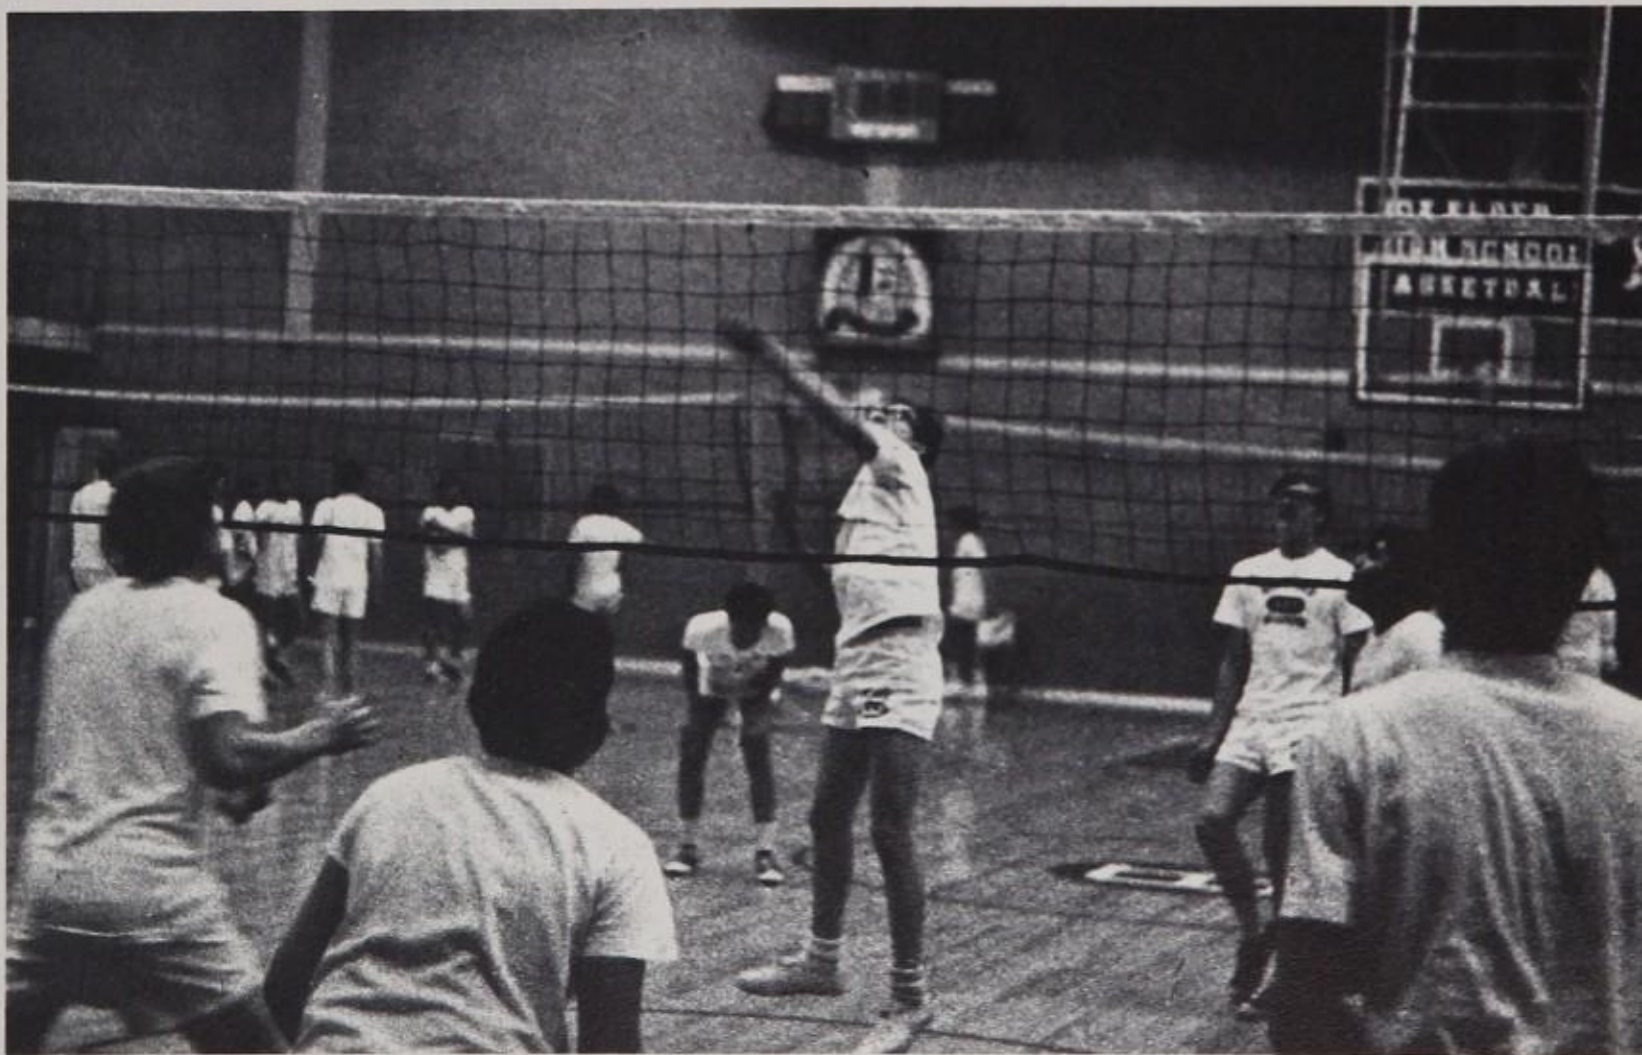

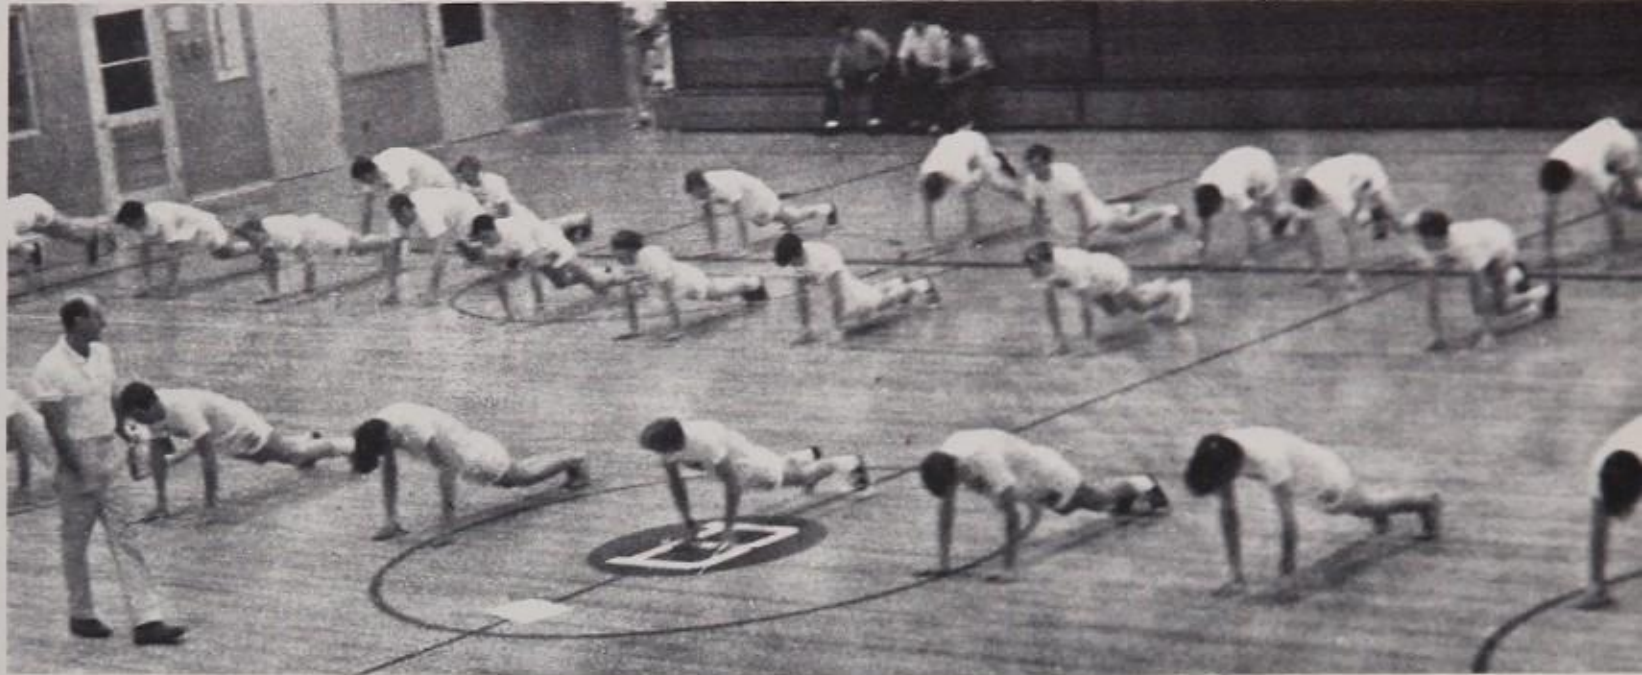

Mr. Harris headed the department and coordinated its activities. Teachers taught classes as boys' and girls' physical education and girls' dance, moving athletics to after school hours.

Odds and Ends

SPORTS

The exertion of human energy,
Sacrificing the last trace of strength,
The giving of one's self to a team,
To these values the athlete dedicates himself.
The joy and triumph of winning
Rewards the practice and pain;
The despair and bitterness of losing
Only redouble the strife for perfection.
Through sports man disciplines himself,
Seeking physical and mental fulfillment,
And respects the competitor's achievement too.

Football 1969

After a close pre-season game with Granite, 28-27, the Bees came back to scot Ben Lomond 6-0 for the first league game. Coach Dunn was laid up in the hospital at the time, but returned to coach his gridiron men on. But disappointment was theirs, as Roy stepped over the Bees for a 18-16 victory. In accordance, Box Elder stunned Bear River with some fine offense work, stinging the cross-country rival with 19-14 win. Excitement mounted as Box Elder took on Morgan 27-6 in a non-conference game, showing them that the Bees knew how to play ball. At the homecoming game, the Sky View "Bobcats" showed us that they wanted to win. Box Elder's defensive lines were finally worn down with a 28-14 victory for the "cats". After the disappointing loss, the Bees rebuilt their confidence by handing Weber a 35-20 loss. But the Bees turned cold as they faced Logan. The Grizzlies walked away with a 20-2 win over the puzzled Bees. The Bees warmed up the next week and won their first home-game with a victory over Ogden, 21-13. To round out the season, Bonneville captured the last game 32-16 to give the Bees a 4-4 season.

Football 1969

The Junior Varsity's season turned out to be a goal which they had been seeking all year, a perfect record. The team worked hard under the direction of Coach Peterson and played hard, so that they could obtain their goal. The team rejoiced when the last game was theirs, for their record was 8-0.

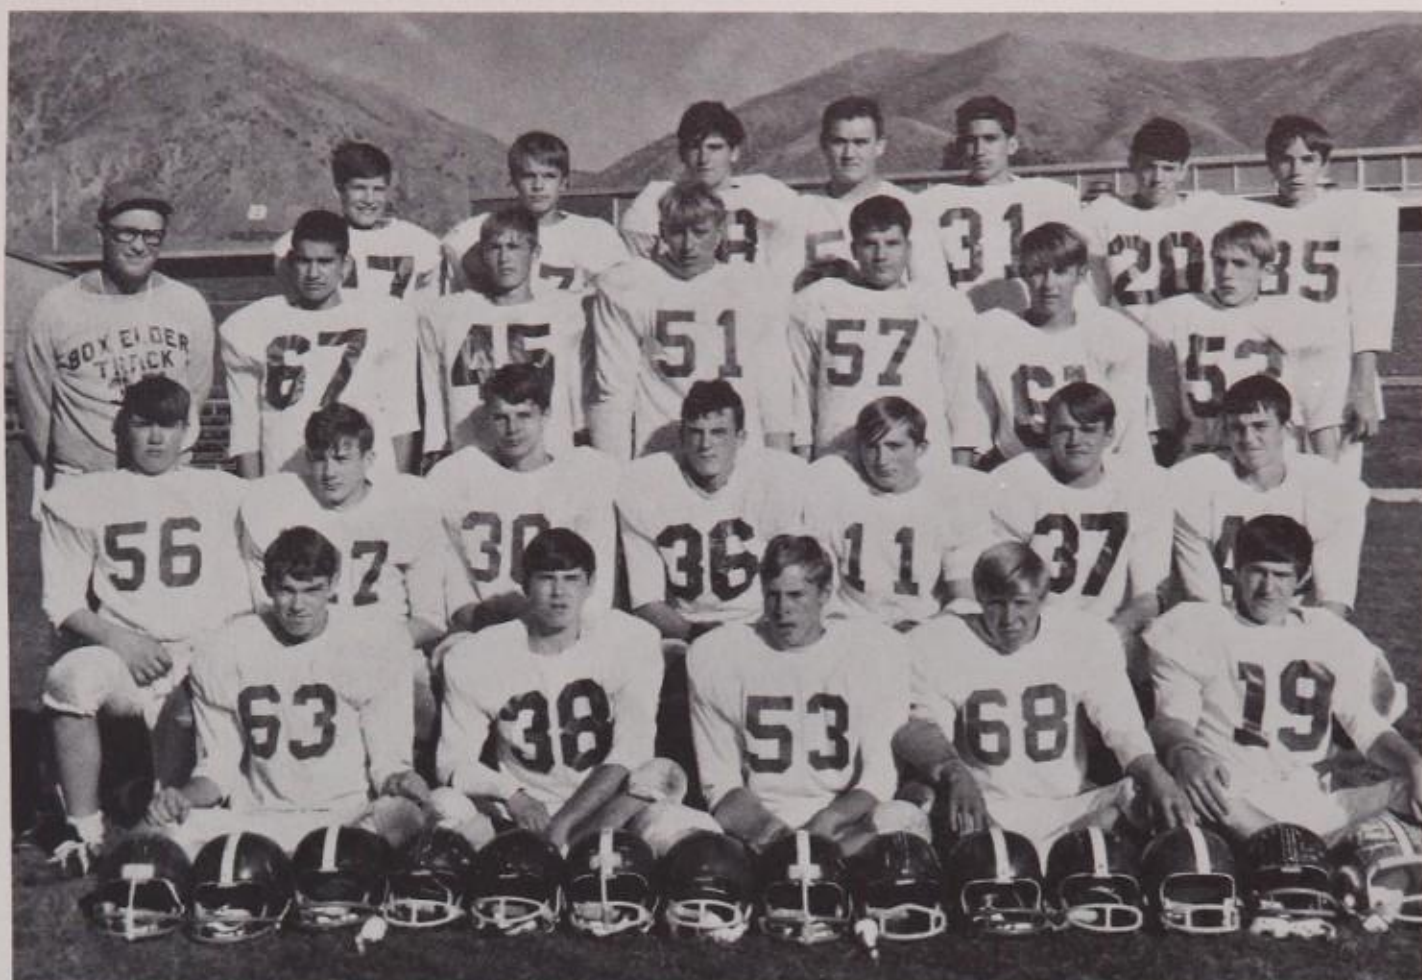

With a small team and fighting hearts, the Sophomores' team practiced intensely to improve their techniques and plays for up-coming years. The team played many fine games, under the coaching of Al Fleming, but usually their hopes were not fulfilled. They held up their courage throughout the season, to end up with a 2-5 record.

Practicing at the Junior High under the direction of Elvin Mitchell and Ralph Nielsen, the freshmen met their first high school games with fighting power. They learned both good sportsmanship and how to handle the football. They showed the school that they wanted to represent them in the future, ending the season with three wins, three losses, and one tie.

With hopes of having a great year, Box Elder's basketball team started the 1969-70 season with a win over North Summit in a non-conference game. The team practiced daily, running, shooting, and working on plays, developing the skills needed to win. Under the direction of a new coach Dennis Cusick, the team prepared to meet their opponents.

But the right combination was just not found among the Bees as they lost to Sky View 80-72. The team jumped back the next game, to take the victory from the cross-city rivals, Intermountain. Box Elder next played Payson in which the B.E. players shot an excellent game winning 90-54.

Box Elder then found themselves in a groove during the next six games, as they got an early lead in the first quarter, then let the other team take over in the second, regain their lead in the third only to lose in the fourth quarter. Our cross-country rivals, Bear River, barely managed to beat us by winning 64-62, but even then the team did not give up hope of winning.

Box Elder finally jumped out of their groove by defeating Ben Lomond 77-65 and Intermountain 64-38. During the next four games the Bees fell back into their groove losing to Bear River, Bonneville, Logan, and Sky View. Despite all this, the Bees still had a chance to go to State, as they went into the region playoff against Roy. The Bees played one of their finest games against the Royals, but the Royals took the chance of going to State from our hands as they defeated the Bees 79-78, to the disappointment of the school.

The team throughout the season always tried to do their best and were trying each game to bring home a victory. The aspiration of going to State was defeated, but each player along with the studentbody gained a feeling of sportsmanship and the spirit of trying together to win.

With the aid of Carl Beckstead, the sophomore team practiced the techniques of handling a basketball. They played hard throughout the year ending with a 3-10 record.

The freshmen got their first taste of playing high school as they played under the direction of Verle Allred at the Junior High. Their final record was 3-6.

Wrestling 1970

With a lot of effort combined with both practice and experience, Box Elder's wrestling team showed the school that they wanted to be a winning team. The wrestlers put forth many hours of dedicated work to show their new coach, Harold Anderson, that they were determined to win.

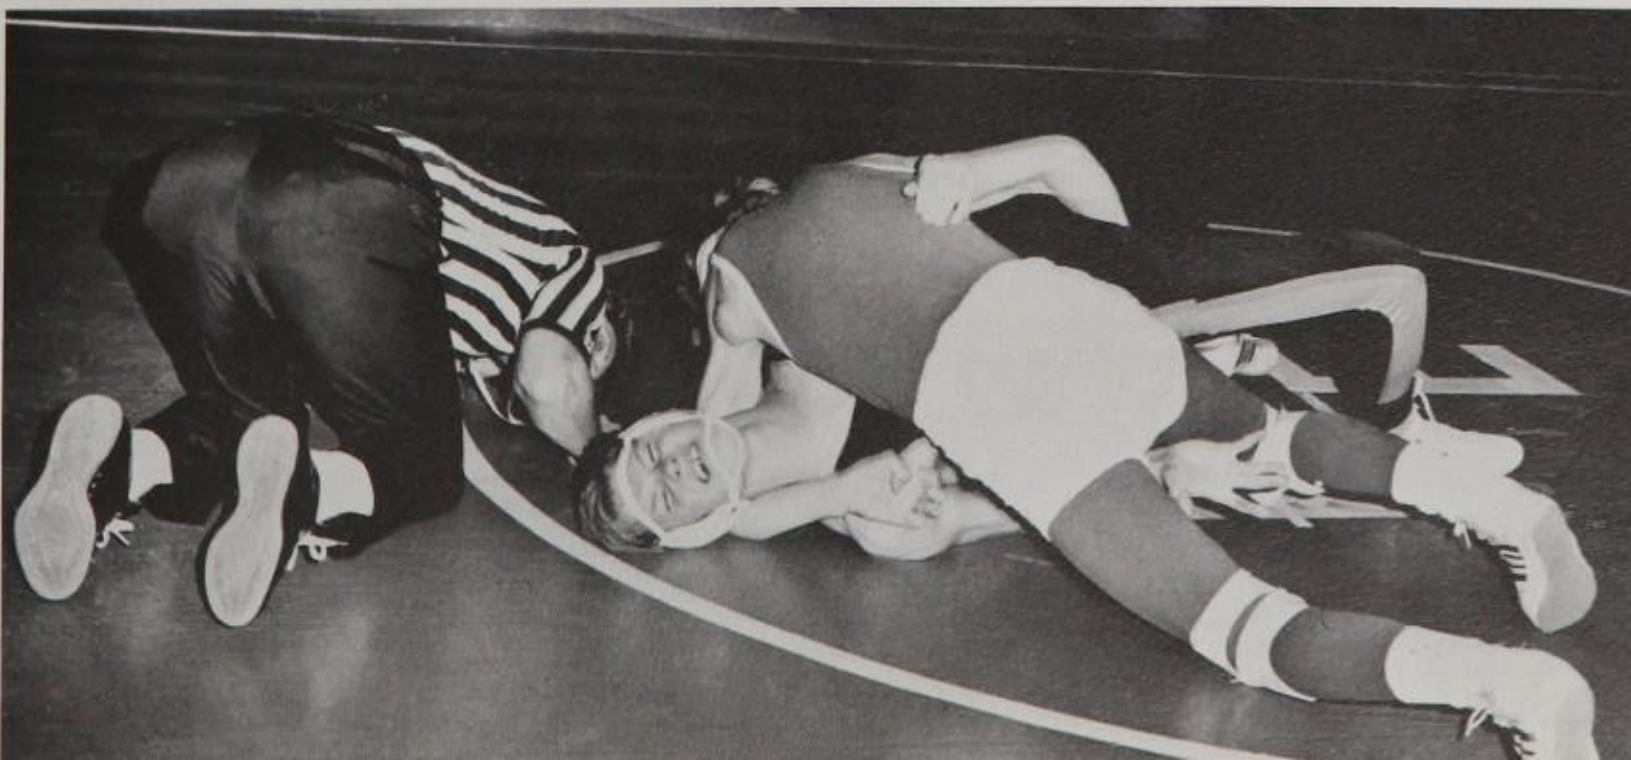

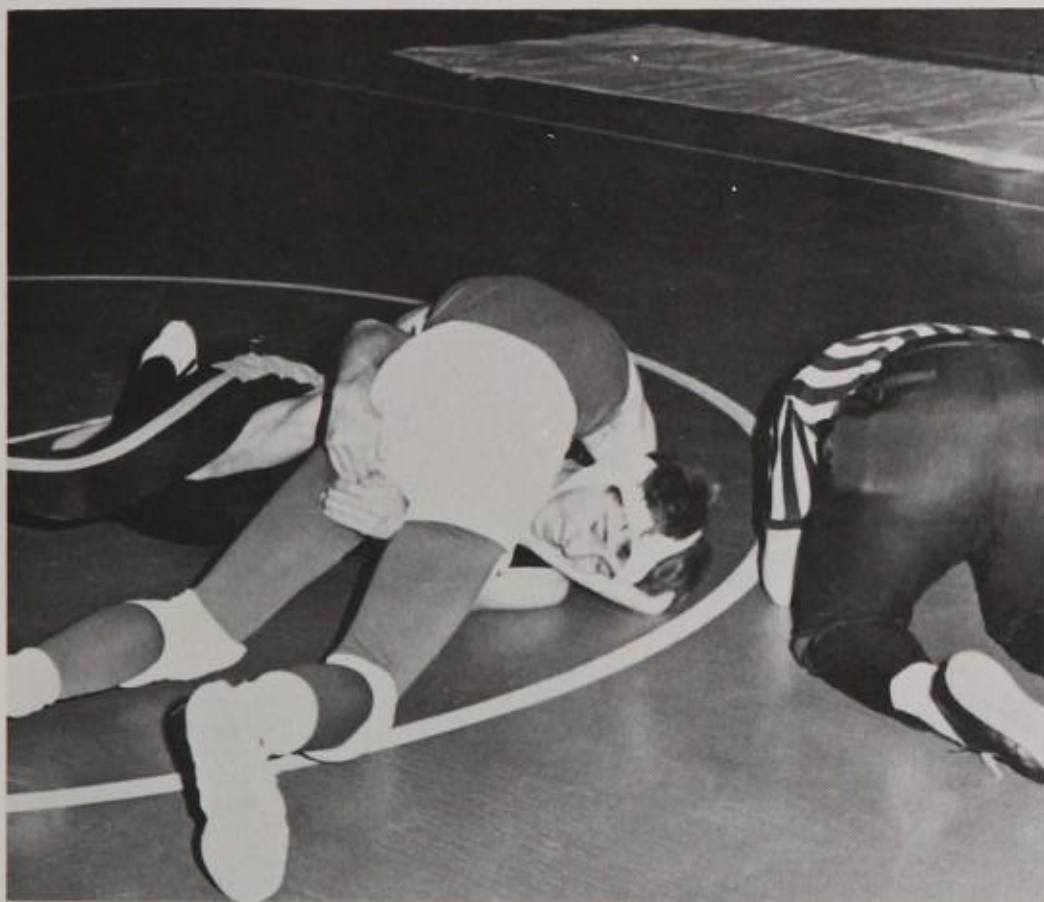

Many individual matmen came through the season with excellent individual records, helping the team's score. The upper-weight men showed the quality of wrestling as they wrestled. The team came in second place in Region I. At the region meet, five wrestlers took honors, with Eldon Larsen taking first, Mike Mathis and Norval Braithwaite placing second, and Steve Turner, and Steve Harper taking third. The wrestler's season record 7-3 showed the school their determination to win.

Swimming 1970

Swimming in both ice-cold and very hot water, didn't stop Box Elder's swimming team from their daily practices at the Junior High School. The paddlers, under the supervision and coaching of Les Dunn, worked very hard to take-off precious seconds from their times. Working on racing dives, practicing turns, working on different strokes, and most of all building up stamina constituted their practices.

Their hard work paid off in the long run, as they ended the league season with a 6-0 record, and took second place in the region meet. The experience of the older swimmers combined with the underclass's hard work produced a successful team. Six of the top paddlers earned a chance to participate at the State meet by placing in the state-qualifying meet. Due to the feeling of dedication and the enjoyment of swimming, Box Elder's team had a great year.

Track 1970

Track proved to be an interesting sport, with many events occurring at once. Box Elder's track team showed the school, that their sport is important. The team, working with Coach Les Dunn, practiced every day, with individual members trying to improve their specific events. From races to the field events of high jump, broad jump, pole vault, shot put, discus, and javelin, the fieldmen and runners demonstrated the results of many hard-hours of practice.

The team took third place in a ten-team meet showing that the members were doing a fine job. From the performance of each participant, Box Elder's team had a successful year.

Baseball 1970

Box Elder's swingers reported to the baseball field looking forward to a great year. They started practicing batting skills, catching, pitching, and preparing for the season ahead early in the year. Coaches Vernal Harris and Harold Anderson put forth their knowledge, coupled with hard practice, to produce a successful team.

The return of some fine ball players, encouraged the team to play their best. The game entails skill in batting, running, throwing, so the players have to work hard to succeed. Also, this year the junior varsity team once again existed to give more boys a chance to play ball. This team showed that they wanted to win, by their victories. With the result of the year's games the team can say that they had a great year.

"Love" a popular saying on Box Elder's courts, is the score which the Tennis team tries to hold their opponents. The team started practicing the minute the courts were dry, working on their returns and serves. The coach, Richard Wight prepared the twelve-man team for the year's season.

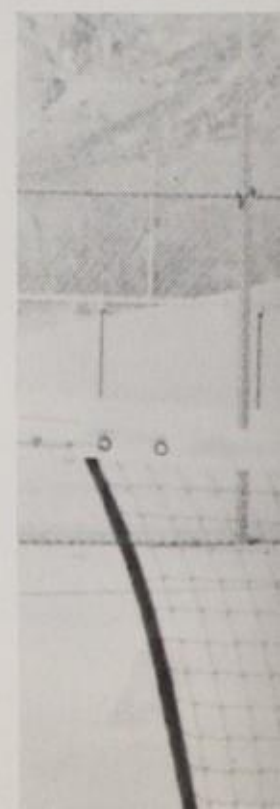

With the return of many lettermen, the team started the season with successful victories showing that experience will prevail. J. Northness, D. Peart, and B. Gardner started the season as the top singles players, with R. Jordan and G. Frost, P. Damon and R. Jensen playing the doubles teams. Box Elder's "netmen" were pleased with the records.

With the swing of the club and the high flight of the ball, the Box Elder Golf team started their season with many victories. The team practiced daily at the Brigham City Golf Course, with Coach Gordon Peterson heading the team. The team practiced long drives, putting, chipping, and many other various techniques.

The members put a lot of work into perfecting their game, and their record showed it. With the backing of experienced lettermen and the fine playing of the underclassmen, the clubmen went forth with an excellent team and record.

Cheerleaders

spurred enthusiasm

Building school spirit served as the purpose of the cheerleaders. These junior and senior girls spurred the various teams on to victory through pep rallies, hall signs, and cheers. Wendy Lorschieder, head cheerleader, along with Linda Fonnesbeck, Mindy Morris, Marilyn Adams, Monica Nance, and Chris Smith, performed this difficult job. The girls practiced from summer, making up new cheers and perfecting their technique in kicks, jumps, splits, aerial movements. They supported the teams and contributed much to the school year.

CLUBS AND ORGANIZATIONS

Accomplishment through common association,
 Precision through practiced drill,
 Knowledge by inter-relation and communication,
 Clubs and organizations hope and strive
 To realize these grasps of themselves.
 Students, constituents of the whole,
 Determine the attainment of these intentions;
 With their self interpretation and leadership
 They walk together,
 But with each man developing himself,
 Helped by and within the entirety.
 These institutions constitute the school
 As their members comprise them,
 Drawing honor, deserved attention, and closeness.
 Units which echo and re-echo Box Elder's
 PATTERNS . . .

Hoping to present a comprehensive compilation of the school year's happenings, the yearbook staff contributed much hard work and time for the Boomerang. Developing the book on a decided theme, "Patterns", members related the school story to the personal lives of the people in the book, the studentbody. Advised by Mr. Wayman, the book followed rules of good journalism with main emphasis on the photography and written material. The yearbook recorded the school events so the students could remember them in future years as they actually happened.

Each of the nineteen staff members supplied his ideas to expand and strengthen the technique of the book. Finding pictures, writing copy, and designing page lay-outs always kept them busy for deadlines. They also had to look out for the studentbody who was always curious about the book cover and theme. The controversial cover again broke away from purple, using shades of blue. Although going unrecognized at times, the Boomerang staff served the school in an important way, recording a representative story of the 1969-1970 school year.

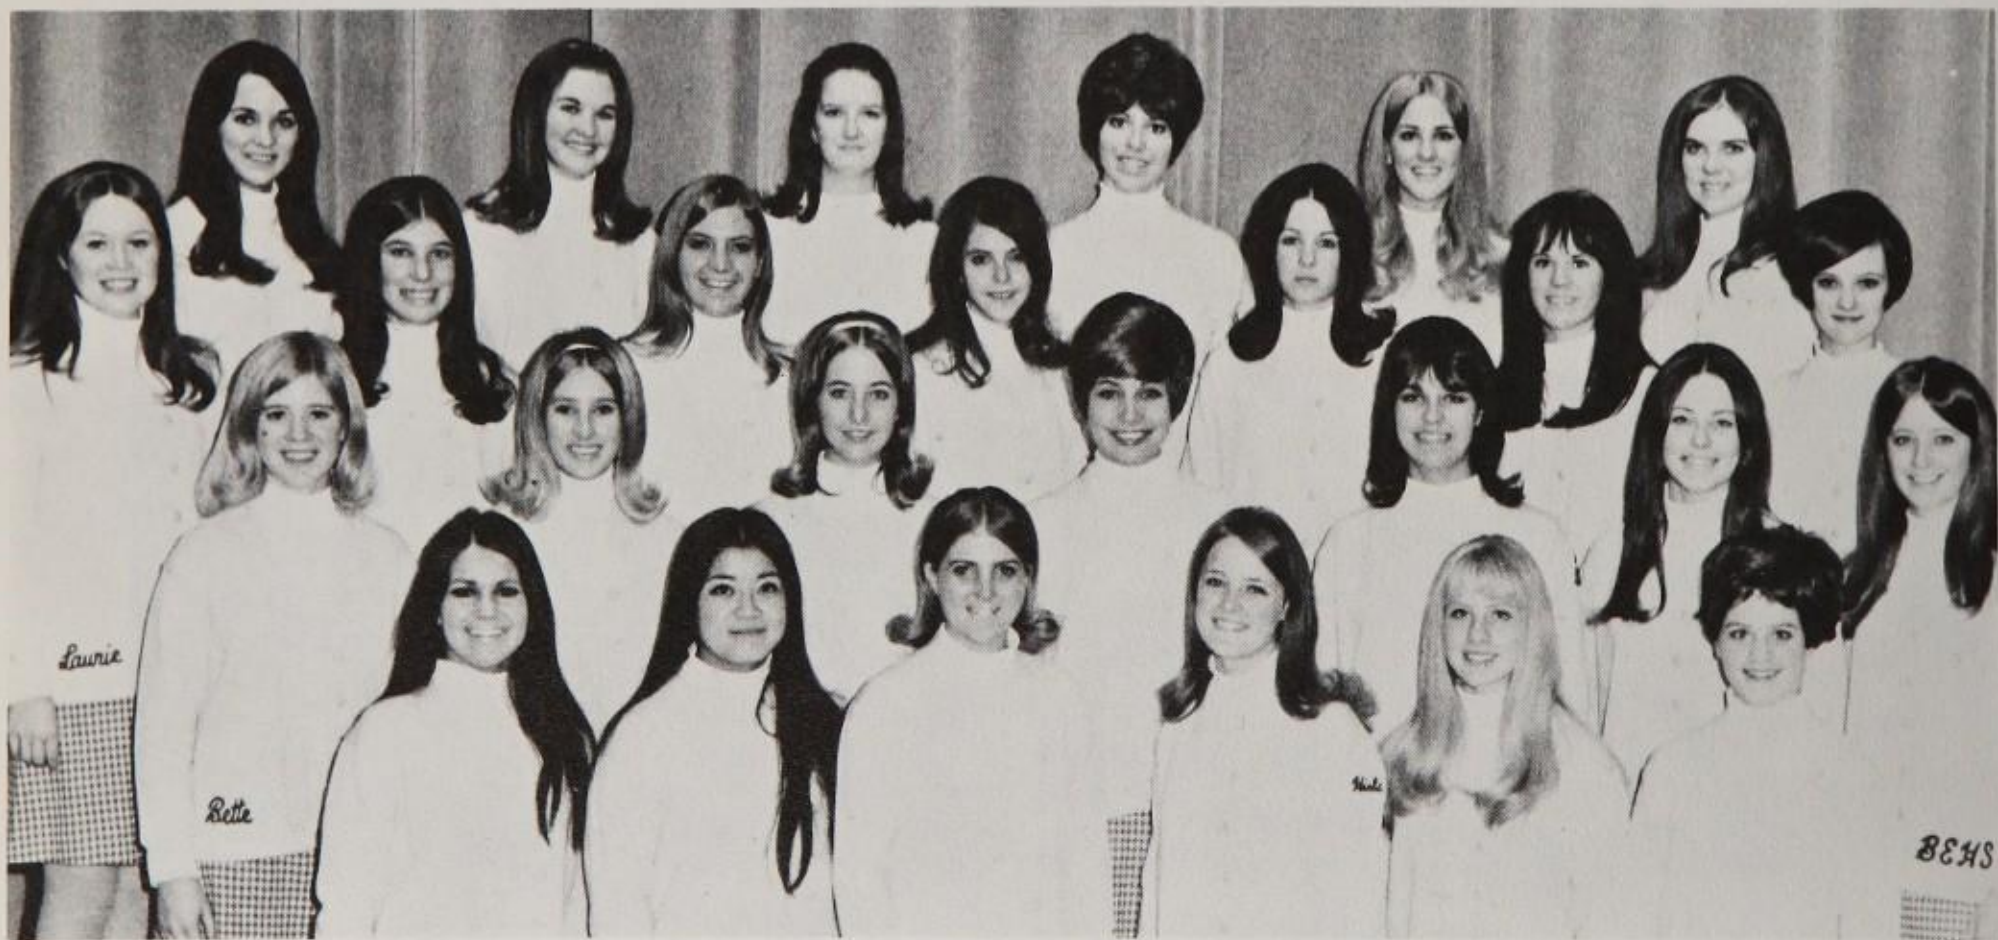

Rockettes

excelled again in precision marching

Many early morning practices were attended by members of the Rockette Club. Practicing their marching, turning, and kicking, the girls proved to be a precision drill team.

The club, consisting of sophomore, junior, and senior girls participated in traditional activities and also in new activities. They held their traditional party with the Key Club and also acquired new marching uniforms. Their pep and enthusiasm added greatly to pep rallies and games.

They marched in many parades and at games and at the end of the year traveled to Idaho Falls to compete with drill teams from the surrounding areas.

B'Ettes

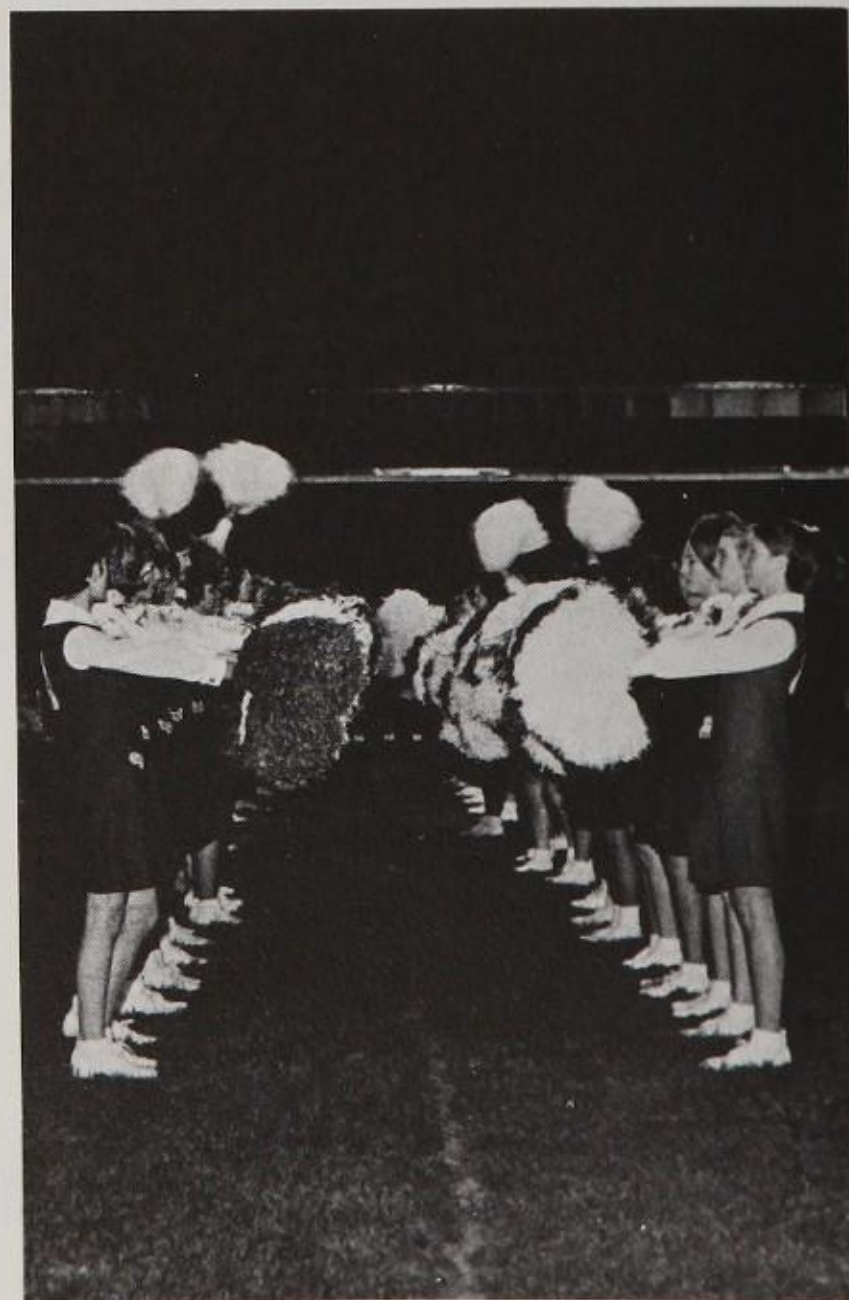

bubbled with enthusiasm

The officers of B'Ettes this year were Janice Muir, president; Christine Plowman, vice-president; Mere Seelos, secretary; Vicki Spiekerman, treasurer; Wendy Christensen, historian; and Dale Hepworth, drill leader.

Mrs. Chapple, who was sponsor for three years, left the B'Ettes this year, and Mrs. Skinner became the new advisor. She had a difficult time keeping up with the spirited B'Ettes because she broke her ankle, but she did a great job in spite of this handicap.

Some of the B'Ette activities were summer initiations, the candlelight induction ceremony, a hayride, and a Christmas party. Their formal dance, the Sweetheart's Ball, had the theme, "A Time For Us". Besides these activities each girl had a "secret player" for whom she decorated his locker and made fruit baskets. The B'Ettes emphasized teamwork, and worked and played together to make a successful club.

Right: Football half times were often cold and breezy but the B'Ette's warm smiles kept the fans in the bleachers.

Key Club

sponsored many activities

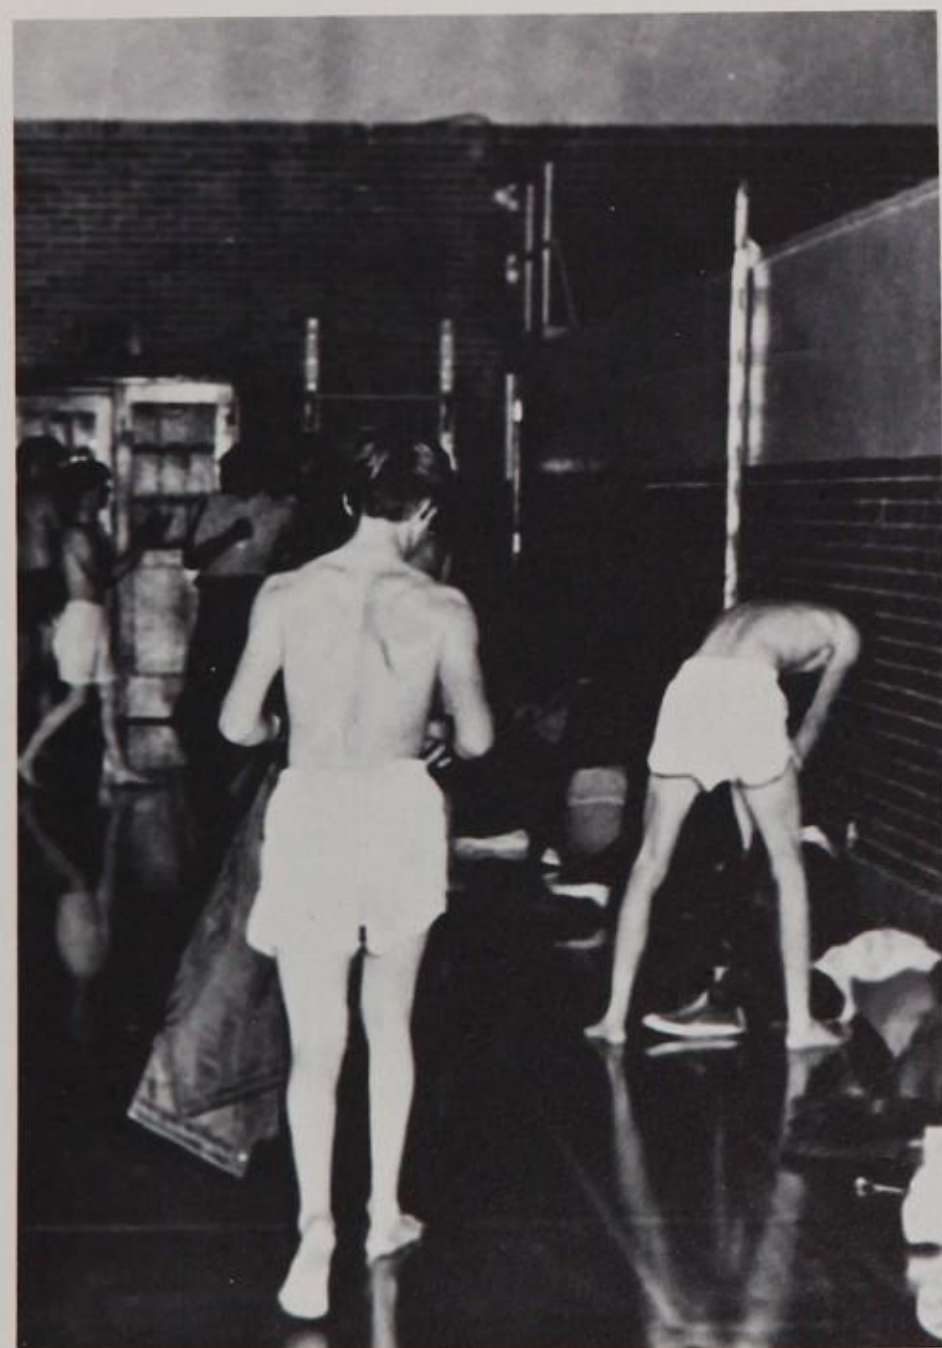

Affiliate of the Kiwanis Club, the Key Club served as one of the school's most active organizations. They appeared in the Peach Days parade and limed "BE" on the football field for homecoming. They also ushered at football games. During Thanksgiving they gave away free turkeys, and at Christmas they subbed-for-Santa for two families. These boys also planned the Valentines Dance. The club took seventh place at the Utah-Idaho district convention. Steven Warren, district secretary, was in charge of the convention held March 20-22, at Hotel Utah.

Box Elder's long standing boys' club, the B'Ivers contributed much to school life. Starting the year, the old members initiated "goats". These candidate members attended school several days wearing white gloves and carrying large amounts of coins and rocks in their pockets. After becoming members, however, these boys joined in various activities such as building school spirit, performing pep rally skits, and enjoying parties and dances. The B'Ivers also served the school by ushering at basketball games. B'Ivers always stood out in their sweatshirts, tee shirts, or sweaters. New to the B'Ivers was their advisor, Mr. Dixon. He added his ideas to help innovate new projects such as a B'Iver sponsored dance for the studentbody.

Box Elder High School's orchestra specialized in semi-classical and classical music. Composed mainly of string instruments, this musical organization met daily in a regular class to practice and perfect their selections.

Mr. Swenson taught the orchestra a half hour Mozart symphony this year which he presented in the winter concert. The orchestra staged a spring concert, and several members had the opportunity to attend the Utah State Symphony in Salt Lake City this spring. Most of the members were in the Golden Spike Empire Youth Symphony. The orchestra increased Box Elder's recognition of fine arts.

Dance Band

improved their music ability

A small and specialized group of students from the instrumental music department formed Box Elder High School's dance band.

They performed at half time activities during the Box Elder Bonneville game and also provided entertainment at the Children's Theatre presentation, "The Wizard of Oz".

Among their other activities, they performed during an assembly they presented for Intermountain School. At the end of the school year, they went to Idaho Falls where they accompanied the Rockettes who marched in competition with other drill teams from the surrounding areas.

Under the direction of Mr. Earl Swenson, the dance band practiced every day to achieve a perfect tone quality and sound in the music they played.

Band

astounded all in "Music Man"

The largest class in the instrumental music department was the band. Under the direction of Mr. Earl Swenson, the band members practiced daily to harmonize the different instrumental sections to attain a united and perfected sound.

They held a winter and a spring concert in which they performed mostly classical music.

The concert band marched in parades, performed during the school musical and also for various grade schools in the community. Performances were enjoyed by all who viewed them.

Concert Choir

performed on concerts, musicals, and assemblies

Mr. Bowman directed the audience to join in singing with the concert choir in "Up with People" during the Patriotic Assembly.

Concert Choir is one of the largest organizations at Box Elder High School. Directed by Wes Boman, they participated in various assemblies and other productions.

They took part in a pop concert titled "I Dig Rock and Roll Music", and also were in the Happy Holidays Production, which was presented during the Christmas Holidays.

Concert Choir played a large part in the school musical, "The Music Man". Some students had leading roles and the entire choir was involved somehow.

A small group of students with exceptional vocal talents formed the Madrigals. They worked hard to achieve perfection in the songs that they performed.

They presented the musical numbers in various assemblies and productions. They took part in a pop concert presented during the year and also in Box Elder High School's Musical, "The Music Man".

During the year, they practiced and performed under the experienced direction of Mr. Wesley Boman.

During the year, some of the Madrigals went to All-State Choir to join with students from other schools in a song festival.

Thespians

improved caliber of Theater Arts

The National Thespian Society is devoted to the advancement of dramatic arts in the secondary schools. Thespians at Box Elder High School also strove to promote interest in drama and its principles.

Presenting five major productions this year, the Thespians were kept active. They started the year off with "The Wizard of Oz", and followed with "Happy Holidays", "The Glass Menagerie", "The Music Man", and "The Robe". Thespians also presented one act plays in their regular meetings.

"Resolved: That Congress should prohibit United States unilateral military interventions in foreign countries", was the debate issue in Forensics this year. Debaters spent long hours in research for material with which they could substantiate their arguments and counter-arguments effectively and forcefully. Coached and advised by Mr. Fleming they competed in a forty school meet at Orem and at a meet at the College of Eastern Utah at Price. They hosted meets and also participated in the State and National Forensics meet at Utah State University.

designed for scholastic achievers

The National Honor Society recognized juniors and seniors who exemplified scholarship, student leadership, and school service. Karl Seashore served as president; Dale Hepworth worked as secretary, and Mindy Morris was the treasurer. Along with four juniors, they outlined the year's plans with Mr. Cefalo's counsel. Members swept and painted the parking lot, sponsored a sub-for-Santa program, held parties, and inducted new members in candlelight ceremonies. With over one hundred members it placed Box Elder high in academic standing and excellence.

Box Elder's Model United Nations studied the operation of this world peace organization. The members especially emphasized Nicaragua and its problems so that they could effectively represent this country at the Model United Nations held at the University of Utah in April. Because of the decrease in membership, sponsor, Mr. Musser, could give more individualized help to the members. Lead by Glenn Dickey, president; Nancy Cragin, vice-president; and Denise Johnson, secretary; the club enabled students to better understand the world and its problems.

Teaching boys on the vocational level, the Future Farmers of America dealt with various aspects of agriculture. The members covered subjects from farm machinery to livestock. Most boys, however, received most of their practical knowledge through home projects.

Among its social activities the club had Halloween and sleigh riding parties with the F.H.A. They also co-sponsored the Harvest Ball with the F. H. A. to the theme, "Tonight". Many members appeared in the assembly, and the F. H. A. elected John Young Harvest Ball King.

Through regular meetings, these freshmen, sophomore, junior, and senior boys prepared themselves for the future of this essential industry.

Box Elder's chapter of the F. F. A., being a state and nation-wide known organization, sent some of these members to both the state and national conventions. The members also celebrated National F. F. A. Week, February 21-28.

The Future Homemakers of America involved girls with family life. Members also learned how to improve themselves by earning degrees. This year eight girls won their state degrees. Some of the club's other activities were parties and dances. With the F. F. A. it sponsored the Harvest Ball and assembly. The F. F. A. elected senior F. H. A.'er Bonnie Yamasaki Harvest Ball Queen. Members also sold cookbooks in order to earn money for the club. However, the major event of the year was the State F. H. A. Convention at the Salt Palace.

Spanish Club

excelled again at Language Fair

Dee Duncan, president; Sherri Swan, vice-president; and Rina Kilminster, secretary; led the Spanish Club. With the help of Mr. Bingham and the highest number of members ever, they made the club a huge success. Events such as Christmas caroling, bowling parties, roller skating outings, lectures, and banquets enabled the members to both have fun and learn Spanish and Latin culture. One highly interesting meeting included a former resident of Chile, Mr. Mason. He showed slides from several countries, acquainting the members with these people and their land. The members competed in the foreign language fair at Utah State University, and some traveled to Mexico on a study tour during the summer to expand their knowledge of the language.

New to Box Elder this year, the French Club planned one of the major undertakings of the year, a trip to France and other European countries. Because of the high cost, the club geared many of its activities toward earning money for the club such as a pop bottle drive. The club had other activities too, enjoying parties and dinners. Mrs. Christensen sponsored the group, and Susan Bratton, president; Robin Marble, vice-president; Janie Underwood, secretary; Betsy Ollett, treasurer; and JoAnn Gilbert, publicity chairman; served as club officers.

Ski Club

developed skills through experience

One of the newly formed clubs at Box Elder High School is the Ski Club. Under the direction of Miss Cheryl Hansen the club enlarged its size this year.

Beginning the year off, the club ordered ski sweaters with a symbol of Box Elder High School on the back.

The club went on many skiing trips during the year. They traveled to Park City to go night skiing and spent a couple of days at Jackson Hole, Wyoming. Through diligent practice they improved their skiing technique.

Revived from past years, the Science Club encouraged its members to seek further scientific knowledge in fields such as chemistry, zoology, and physics. The officers, William Wheatley, president; Patsy Sato, vice-president; and Denise Osborn, secretary; planned the club activities under the supervision of Mr. Wendel. The club's major project was a field trip to the neutrino detector in Park City where students traveled underground to observe this chemical phenomena. Several members also competed for science scholarships by doing research projects.

Reorganized from three years ago, the Art League enabled its members to develop and express their artistic creativity. Mr. Hone supervised the club guided by Douglas Coleman, president; Tony Teseny, vice-president; and Betsy Ollett, secretary. The students went on field trips to art exhibits and learned to appreciate all forms of art. They also displayed their own work. The members used various techniques to express themselves, some of them being drawing, painting, and sculpturing. The members individualized their work by combining personal style and ability.

Psychology Club

gave members insight

Organized this year, the Psychology Club, the Insights, studied the human mind and its behavior. Mrs. Black advised the club with Mrs. McDonald, co-sponsor from the Box Elder County Chapter of the Utah Mental Health Association.

In order to aid their study members visited the Wyoming State Hospital in Evanston. They also had field trips to Utah State University and Provo for lectures and demonstrations on hypnosis. By studying the mind and its mental processes they gained a better understanding of themselves.

wisdom for future vocations

The Vocational Industrial Club is an active organization at Box Elder High School. As a member of a nationwide club, the organization had three main objectives. These objectives were to create more interest in the intelligent choice of vocational pursuits, to strengthen the confidence of young men in themselves and their work, and to create enthusiasm for learning.

Under the direction of Mr. Robert Olsen and Mr. Howard Gittins, the organization had another successful year.

Dance Club

illustrated style

In its third year the Dance Club became a well-known organization at Box Elder. The members performed in assemblies and school productions, at basketball half times, and in their own dance concert. Besides these activities they also had the opportunity to see the Repertory Dance Theater at the University of Utah. The members learned dances from their advisor, Mrs. McClellan, and developed their own creative style and skill in originating new dances.

Stage Crew

created fantastic color combinations aiding production

Essential to any production at Box Elder High School is the stage crew. This group of boys are continuously active both backstage and in the lighting and sound booth.

They operate lights, sound effects, curtains and scenery.

Along with school sponsored productions such as plays, concerts and assemblies, the stage crew also help in community presentations.

Under the experienced direction of Mr. Keith Johnson, these boys assisted greatly in helping each production to run smoothly and efficiently. A few of the presentations that they worked on were "The Wizard of Oz", "Happy Holidays", "The Glass Menagerie", "The Music Man", and "The Robe".

Student Secretaries

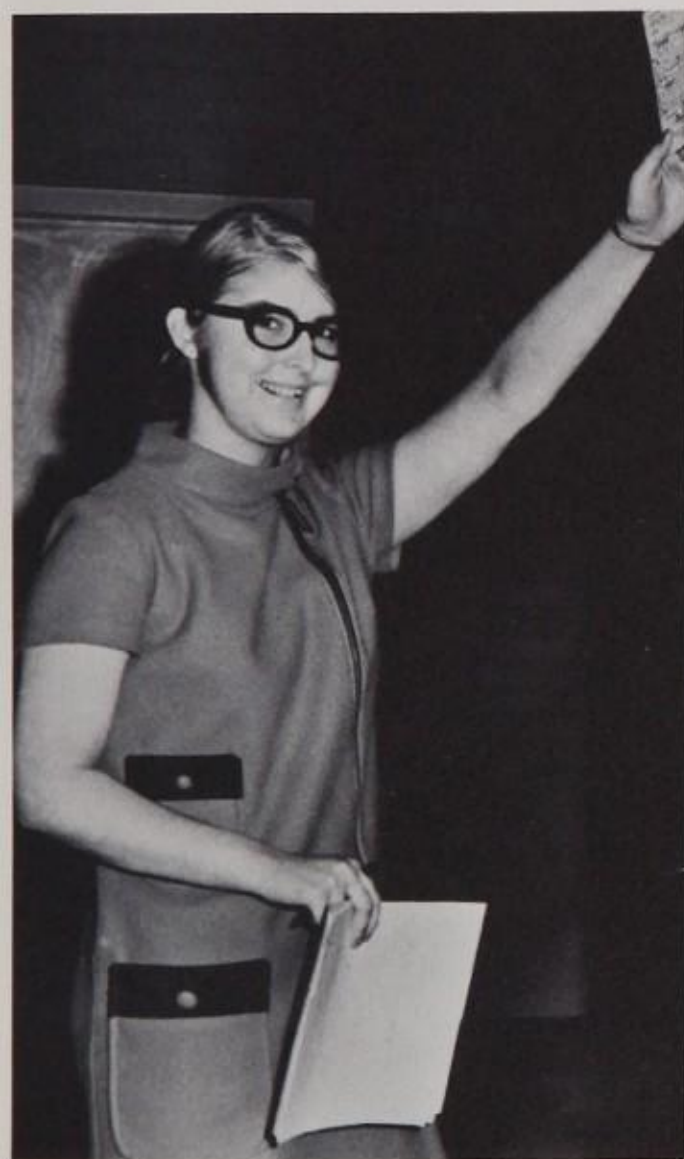

assisted in daily office work

Student secretaries were a great assistance in helping to relieve the work load in the office. Among their many jobs were typing, answering the phone, and various other office work.

By aiding the school secretaries, counselors, and librarians, they learned many of the common office secretary's duties.

They assisted the librarians in keeping the library in order, helped the counselors to schedule their appointments and delivered messages around the school to teachers and students. Through their efforts, Box Elder High School was run more efficiently and they gained the knowledge and experience of an office secretary.

Student Council, composed of studentbody officers, class officers, and elected seniors, worked for close student-administration contact. They initiated school activities and enforced school rules. They also made a special study of school dress codes in relation to Box Elder's regulations and circulated a survey on the subject. The members also studied American problems through a current events newspaper, thus aiding them in their student government administration.

Representative Council assuaged work

Representative Council was comprised of a group of students who represented the entire studentbody in regular meetings. These meetings were under the direction of the studentbody officers and led to keeping students more informed and unified.

One student was chosen from each home room to take student problems and suggestions to representative council meetings. This student also reported what went on in the meetings to his home room class.

Steve Reeder took the job as president of Representative Council and Julie Merrill held the job of secretary.

Bee Staff

advocated school news through monthly publications

Reporting the events of Box Elder High School in a student newspaper was the task undertaken by the Bee Staff.

Under the guidance of Mrs. Alice Telford, the staff combined articles on clubs, sports, and student activities along with photographs to publish a newspaper which was interesting and informative to the entire studentbody.

In one section of the newspaper Letters to the Editor, students were able to express their views on various topics.

Through the "Bee", the students were kept informed of past, present, and upcoming events of Box Elder High School.

GAA

competed in a variety of sports

Through athletic endeavor members of the Girls' Activity Association developed physical prowess, a healthy sense of competition, and good sportsmanship. New advisor, Mrs. Green and officers Regina Tsosie, president; Linda Christensen, vice-president; and Janna Nielson, secretary, designed activities to do these things. Divided into teams, members played in tournaments in sports such as volleyball, basketball, and tennis, and earned team points. Members also compiled individual points toward an award by performing skills tests. They also attended and hosted sports days, forming mixed school teams for tournaments. They relaxed and had dances, too, sponsoring the Bunny Hop. They formed an active club, stressing athletic growth.

Clubs and Organizations

Odds and Ends

Activities served varied and uncountable purposes,
Progressing together,
Exerting strength and unfalterable energy,
Sharing new experiences,
A cause for unending loyalty for the school.
Through these projects and endeavors
The students and school became closer;
They becoming more part of the school,
And the school forming an indelible part of them.
Dances, drama productions, assemblies

Bonded the two into one,
Making a strong but flexible link between them.
Within these activities lies boundless space,
Allowing individual freedom and
School improvement and progress;
But their growth nets together
In an expanse of achievement,
And their mutual responsibility to each other
Reflects and bridges new PATTERNS . . .

ACTIVITIES

Peach Days

supported by students

Brigham City's Peach Days celebration, September 5 and 6, involved many Box Elder High students. The colorguard, twirlers, and Marching Band performed in the parade along with the B'Ettes and Rockettes. Cheerleaders, student-body officers, class officers, and club leaders also appeared in the parade. Box Elder's school float, "Pages of History" garnered a first place in the school division. Roger Olsen headed the committee which built it.

A former Box Elder coed, Millie Stuart reigned as Peach Queen. Several other students also took roles in the musical play, the "Gandy Dancers". Over all the school increased interest and participation in the community event.

Homecoming '69

mixed emotions

Homecoming '69 was a mixture of tradition and beginnings, joy and sadness, dreams and disappointments. Following the example of past years, each class sponsored a special homecoming activity.

Following the painting of the town by the juniors, Thursday evening, the freshman class featured the bonfire which was held at the north end of the high school. The students then enjoyed dancing to the sounds of the Detford Pink at the Bobcat Stomp which was held in the Box Elder High School gym.

During the game in which Box Elder was defeated by Sky View 27-14, the sophomores lit the "B" at half time. Following the game, the Homecoming dance was sponsored by the senior class. Homecoming queen and king this year were Wendy Lorscheider and Mike Mathis. The theme of the dance was "Try To Remember", and was enjoyed by all who attended.

Hello Week

acquainted studentbody

To acquaint new students with Box Elder High served as the purpose of Hello Week. The new students wore badges to identify and introduce themselves to the studentbody. They also appeared on the Hello Assembly which featured the talents of many of the new students.

These people also chose Miss Hi and Mr. Hello who exemplified friendship and amity. They named Porn-tip Sinta, the foreign exchange student from Thailand, Miss Hi and Terrill Gibbs, a student from Bear River High, Mr. Hello. The school honored this couple throughout the week. The Helloballo, a fast dance in the boys gym, culminated the week's activities.

AFS

spreading world-wide culture

Porntip Sinta, Box Elder's foreign exchange student hailed from Nakornpanon, Thailand. For her year in Brigham City, she lived with Dr. and Mrs. William O. Knudsen and their family.

As a senior at B. E. H. S. Porntip or Patti, as she called herself, soon became involved in school life. She joined the B'Ettes and made many new friends. She performed a native dance on the Hello Assembly and was Miss Hi. She traveled to the surrounding schools with other AFS students, presenting assemblies.

Porntip came to the United States with the American Field Service. She said she wanted to come to the United States to tell people about her own country and customs. She quickly became a special friend and member of the studentbody.

Fast Dances

incited self-expression by all

School dances gave students the opportunity to associate with their friends after school hours. The Helloballo was the first dance of the year. Students became acquainted with both old and new friends. The Halloween Dance, "The Midnight Hour", followed the Box Elder-Bonneville football game. Sweater Girl and Boy, Janet Hansen and Brinton Perry, were chosen at the Sweater Dance. B'Ivers and Rockettes each sponsored a fast dance for the studentbody. At the B'Ivers dance, the club honored the winners of the beard growing contest.

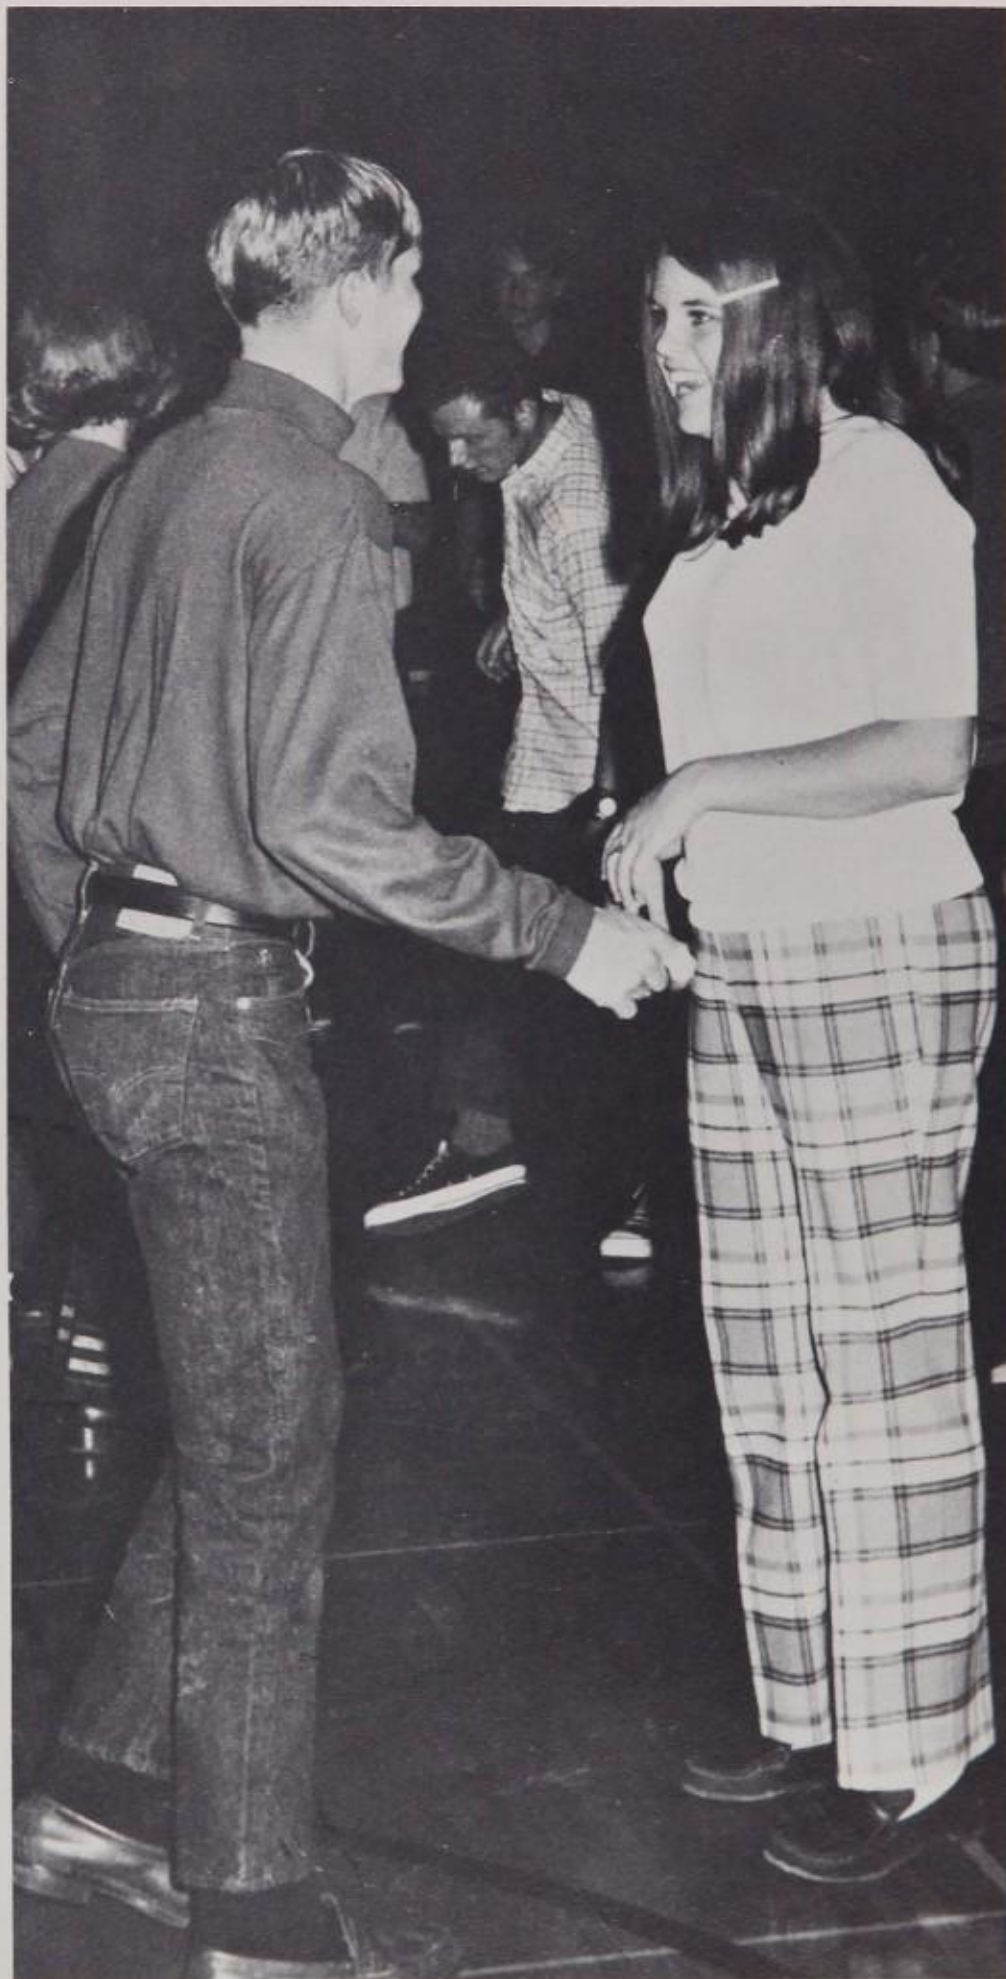

The Key Club planned the Valentines Dance, "Wanderlove", and handled refreshments and decorations. The Sadie Hawkins Dance, a girl's choice, ended the "Clean-up Dogpatch" week. The Girls' Activity Association also sponsored a girl's choice dance, the Bunny Hop. Print Princess and her attendants were announced at the dance. The Election Dance was held in honor of the new studentbody officers and cheerleaders. The year ended with the Purple and White Dance, sponsored by the sophomore class as a final tribute to the graduating seniors.

Christmas Dance

set Xmas atmosphere

Held December 19 in the big gym this year, the Christmas Dance brought an end to the week's activities which included the decorating of home-rooms, assemblies, parties, and caroling. It also marked the start of a two-week Christmas vacation, giving students and teachers a wanted break.

Sophomores sponsored the Christmas Dance and kept with the spirit of the holiday.

Tammy Woodyatt was crowned snow queen this year with Kathy Christoffersen, first attendant and Debbie Jenkins, second attendant.

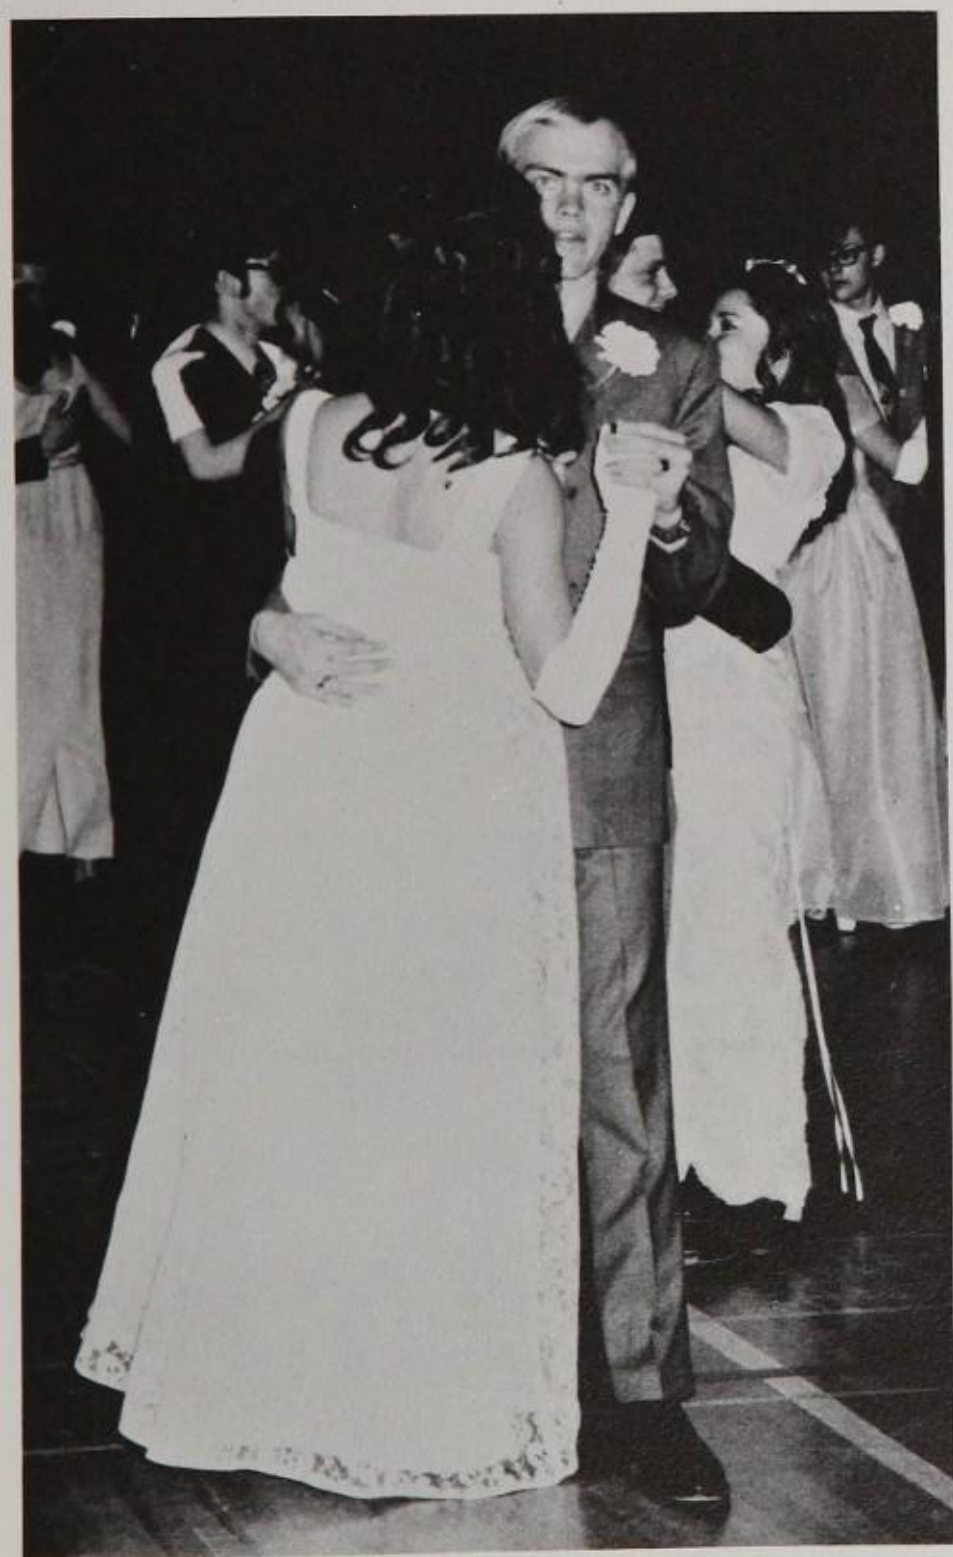

The theme of the Christmas Dance this year, "A Winter Wonderland", was present in all of the decorations. Trees bright with snow and lights dotted the edge of the dance floor giving the feeling of dancing in a shimmering forest meadow. Tables with candles as lights added to the already romantic atmosphere and mood of the night.

Sweetheart Ball

paragoned previous successes

The B'Ettes themed their Sweetheart's Ball to "A Time For Us" from the movie, "Romeo and Juliet". The members decorated the small gym in dark cranberry and gold colors, recreating the scene for the sixteenth century Shakespearean story. The New Sounds, a Brigham City combo, provided the music for the pep club's annual dance. Wendy Christensen and Christine Plowman, dance chairmen, oversaw all the committees which handled refreshments, programs, special invitations, and decorations.

The Sweetheart's Ball was the main social event of the B'Ette calendar. Mr. Wayman photographed the couples as a special remembrance behind a backdrop in the gym. Well planned and executed with advisor, Mrs. Skinner's help, the dance was very successful. The girls voted Janice Muir, B' Ette president, and Bruce Munns Typical Sweethearts. They reigned over the dance held on February 14, Valentine's Day.

Bonnie Yamasaki and John Young, Harvest Ball Queen and King, reigned over this year's Harvest Ball. F. H. A.'ers and F. F. A.'ers voted Barbara Nicholas and Richard Holmgren first attendants and Janice Muir and Steven Harper second attendants. Sponsored jointly by the Future Farmers of America and Future Homemakers of America, members from both organizations handled the assembly, decorations, and refreshments. The dance chairmen chose "Tonight" for the theme of this annual best dress dance held at Thanksgiving. A very popular group, the Lonely Bulls, played at the dance, and the students enjoyed their music.

The decorations represented typical country scenes which fit the holiday season. The dance commanded a large turnout and resulted in one of the most successful dances of the year.

Lyceums

brought in visiting talent

Lyceums gave students a break from the regular activities of the school day and provided entertainment and enjoyment of a different type.

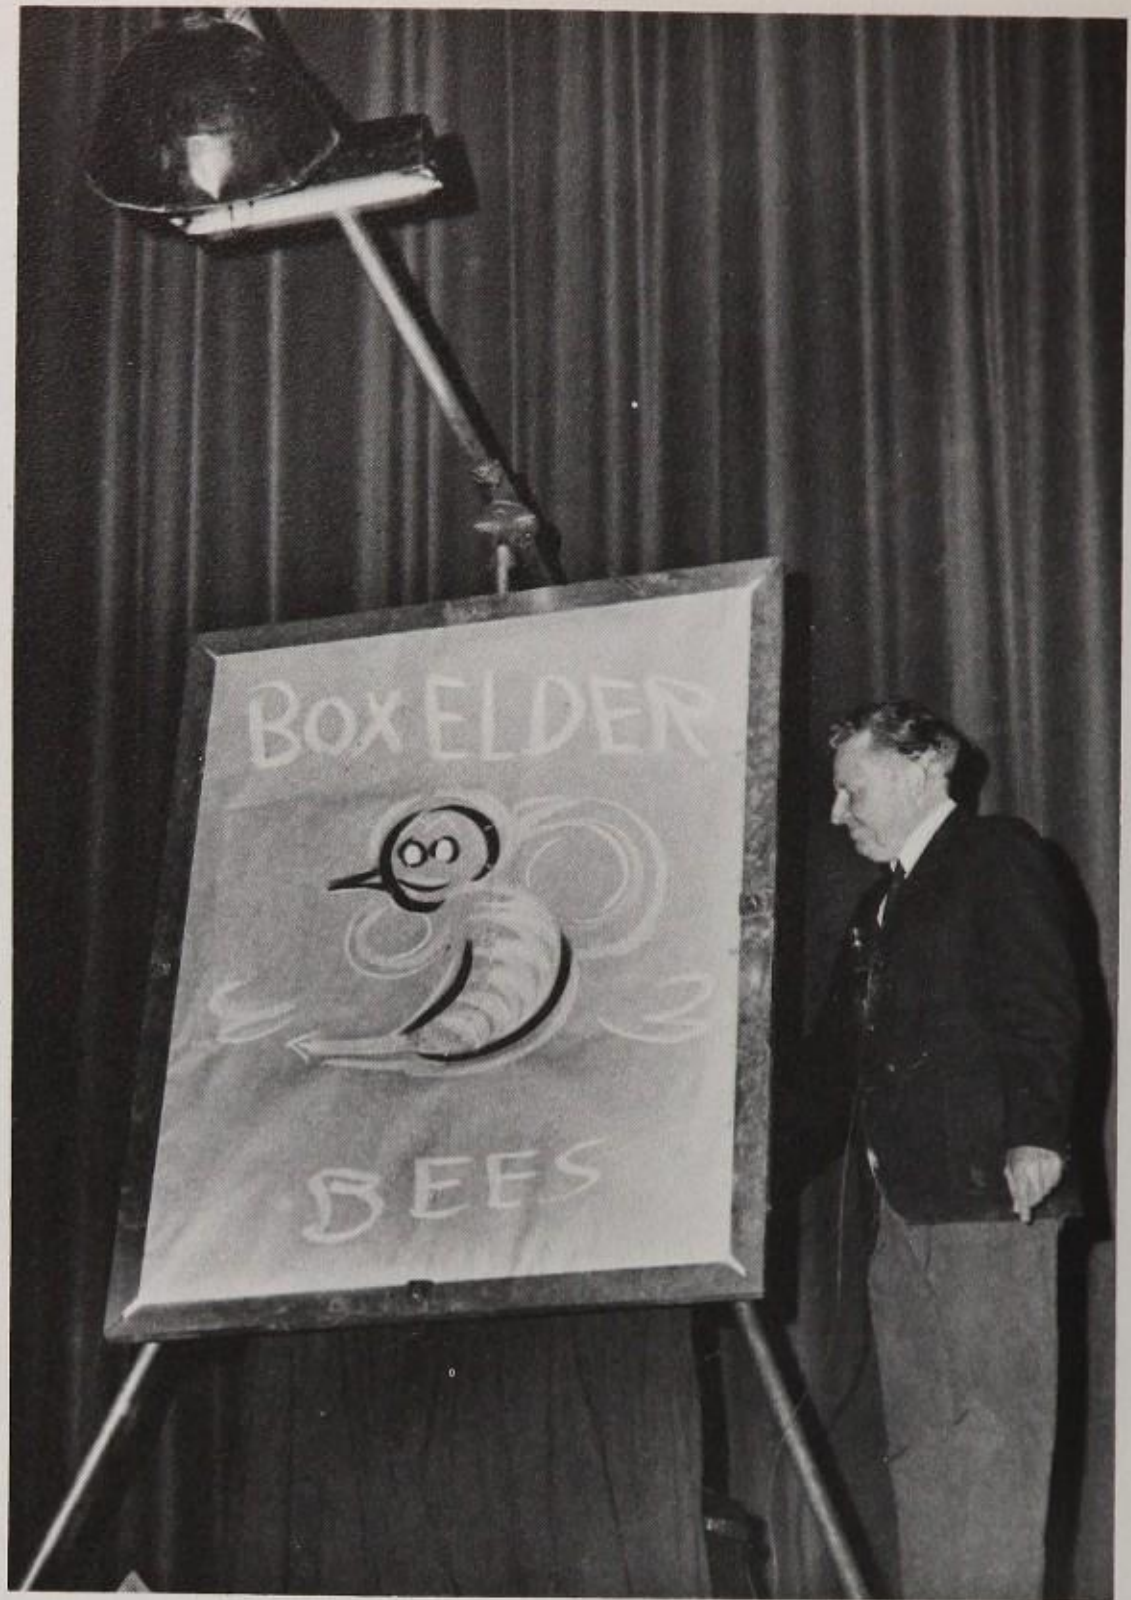

Ronald Miyashiro, blind pianist, fascinated students with his musical abilities. He expressed his talents in various forms of music, ranging from classical to modern.

The Tyrolean Trio, from Austria, entertained students in song and dance and also displayed their talents playing musical instruments. Through their music, they portrayed the culture of their homeland.

Bob Wood, a cartoon artist, entertained students with his drawings of famous characters and places.

The American Field Service presented an assembly with students from foreign countries expressing songs, traditions, and dances from their native lands.

Happy Holidays

brightened the season

The "Happy Holidays" production at Box Elder High School, presented during the Christmas Holidays was a take-off of the Broadway presentation. The show went through the holidays and special celebrations of the year and paid tribute to each one.

Featuring many different types of talent from singing to hula dancing, the variety show involved an extremely large cast.

The show included many students from the high school and also outside talent. Many clubs from the school, such as the Dance Club, Rockettes, and the Spanish Club took part in the presentation. M. C. for the production was Michael Carver, a well-known local performer, who displayed his talents in various songs.

Right: R. Quintana builds a snowman during Christmas assembly. Below: A group of choir members sang "Freedom Isn't Free" in patriotic assembly.

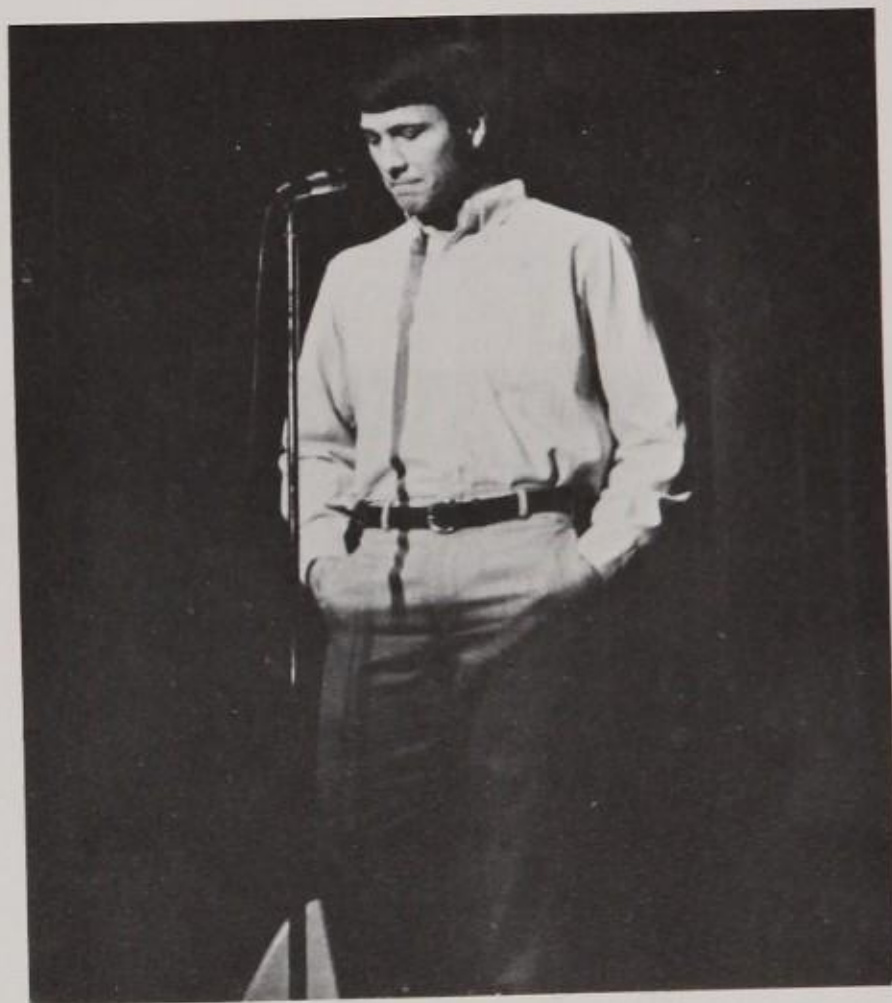

Assemblies amused and informed the student-body and came in conjunction with holidays or major school events. The year commenced with the business and Hello assemblies, introducing school rules and new students. The Homecoming assembly featured alumni, returned by a time machine. Held in connection with Veteran's Day, the Patriotic assembly was centered around the song, "Up With People". The F. H. A. and F. F. A. presented a "Scarborough Fair" in the Harvest Ball assembly, and the Christmas assembly in the big gym included toy soldiers, a fairy, and a singing Christmas tree. The "Clean-up Dogpatch" assembly climaxed clean-up week and Sadie Hawkins, and the Top Ten and Award assemblies ended the year, honoring outstanding students.

Wizard Of Oz

brought Oz to life

Box Elder's drama department presented the Wizard of Oz for its Children's Theater production. Because the theater has become a traditional favorite, the double cast and stage crew held thirteen performances for students of the surrounding schools and the general public.

The version used altered the original script and modernized the play. Special stage props such as the wizard's smoke-blowing image and the enchanted revolving bridge also added effectiveness to the famous story.

The main plot involved Dorothy Gale, portrayed by Kirsten Rasmussen and Laurinda Beecher, and her three companions in their search for the wizard. Dan Price and David Black characterized the tin man; Dan Sparkman and John Plowman played the scarecrow, while Wade Hyde and Delose Conner became the cowardly lion.

Box Elder High School's musical this year was "The Music Man". Under the direction of Mr. Wes Boman, Mrs. Fontell Messervy and Mr. Earl Swenson, the choral and instrumental music departments and the drama department joined together to present one of the years largest dramatic productions.

"The Music Man", written by Meredith Wilson, is about a traveling salesman, Harold Hill, who comes to a small town, River City, Iowa, to organize a boys' band.

Lead roles were taken by Dave Black, who portrayed Professor Harold Hill, the traveling salesman, and Barbara Nicholas, who played the part of Marion Paroo, the town librarian. Remaining roles were taken by students in the music and drama departments.

The gay and fast-moving musical, which was presented at a matinee for students of the junior high school and also for the public was a great success through the combined efforts of the music and drama departments.

Glass Menagerie touched all hearts

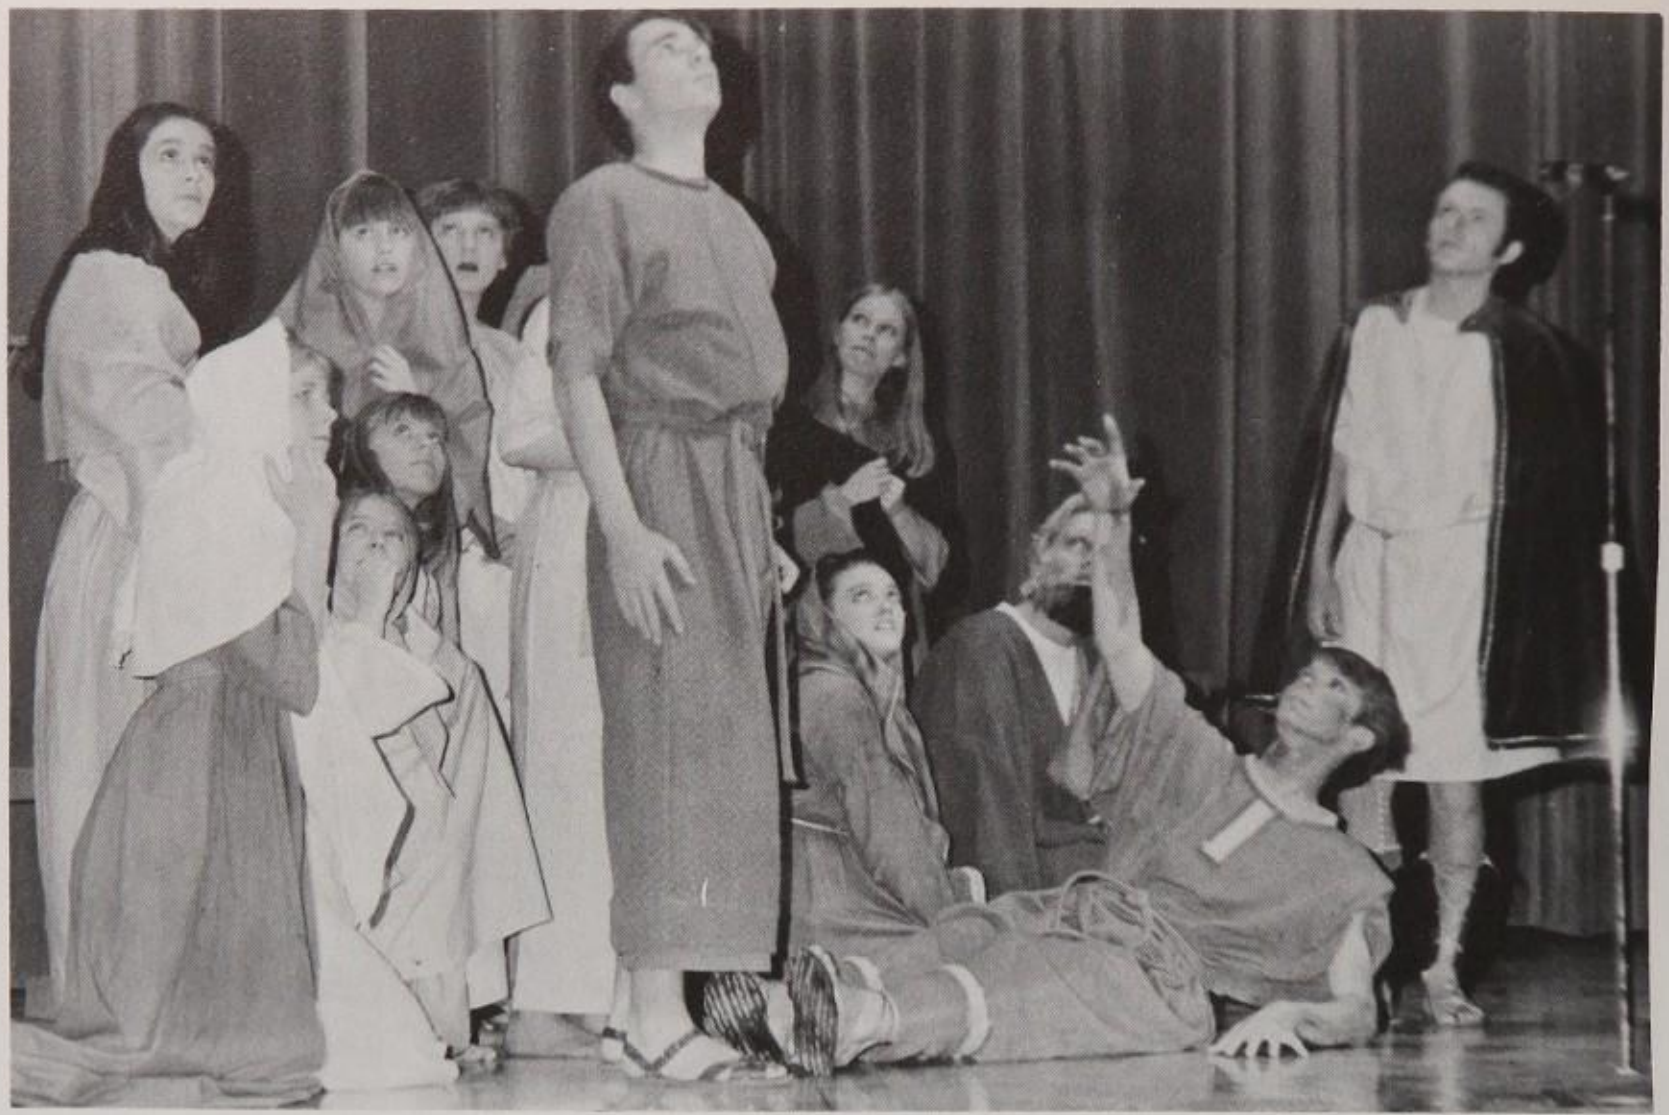

"The Glass Menagerie", a memory play by Tennessee Williams, was the third dramatic production presented on Box Elder High School's stage this year. The drama department attempted this new type of play under the direction of Mrs. Myra Christensen.

The small cast, made up of four students, had the new experience of working on a box set.

The plot of the play dealt with Laura, a shy, crippled girl, played by Mindy Morris, her over-protective mother, played by Vickie Kilgore, and her brother, played by Dan Price. The fourth character, portrayed by Doug Glauser, was a young outgoing gentleman caller who helped Laura emerge from the shell she was hiding in and shed her feelings of inferiority.

The Robe

enlivened Easter spirit

Prior to spring vacation, the drama department presented the annual Easter play. The Robe was chosen as this year's production. The story dealt with main character Marcellus Galio, portrayed by Steve Hansen, and the aftermath of his crucifixion of Christ. Haunted by the robe Jesue wore, he later converted to Christianity. Peggy Anderson characterized Diana, Marcellus' fiancée and later his wife, and Mike Cox played Marcellus' Grecian slave, Demetrius.

Box Elder's fifth major drama production, the Robe had a cast of approximately fifty students. Mrs. Fontell Messervy directed the play with help from Shawna Powers, student director. David Black worked as production manager, contributing long hours to the play.

awed crowd with Serenata

Starting many weeks ahead, class officers, prom chairmen, and committee chairmen carefully planned the Junior Prom. Marilyn Burt and Robert Breitenbeker, serving as prom chairmen, oversaw all the prom preparations. They delegated other responsibilities to hard-working committee heads, in charge of programs, decorations, the promenade, publicity, refreshments, and the assembly. Soon after committees met, decoration meetings began, prom assembly try-outs were held, and couple's names were gathered for the promenade. Mr. Richard Wight and Mrs. JoAnne Corpany, class parents, were the faculty advisors, and their experience helped juniors avoid many of the problems involved, and despite junior kidnappings and senior raids, the junior class successfully presented its Junior Prom and assembly on April 3, with the theme, "Serenata."

Junior Prom enchanted all the couples

The prom assembly featured the talent of many juniors. Themed around Aladdin's lamp, the assembly had three genies who brought pictures to life. Vocal and dance groups performed, but the announcement of the theme, "Serenata," attracted the most attention.

Spanish decorations of red and gold filled the boys' gym, and hanging flower baskets, satin arches, gardens, a water fountain, and a stairway accented the theme. A refreshment area was provided where couples enjoyed cakes, cookies, and punch. Couples could also have their pictures taken against a special backdrop. The Lonely Bulls provided the music for the occasion. The promenade, however, was the main event of the dance, as junior couples formed a "71" and a junior quartet sang "Serenata." The work resulted in the huge success of this annual formal dance.

Activity

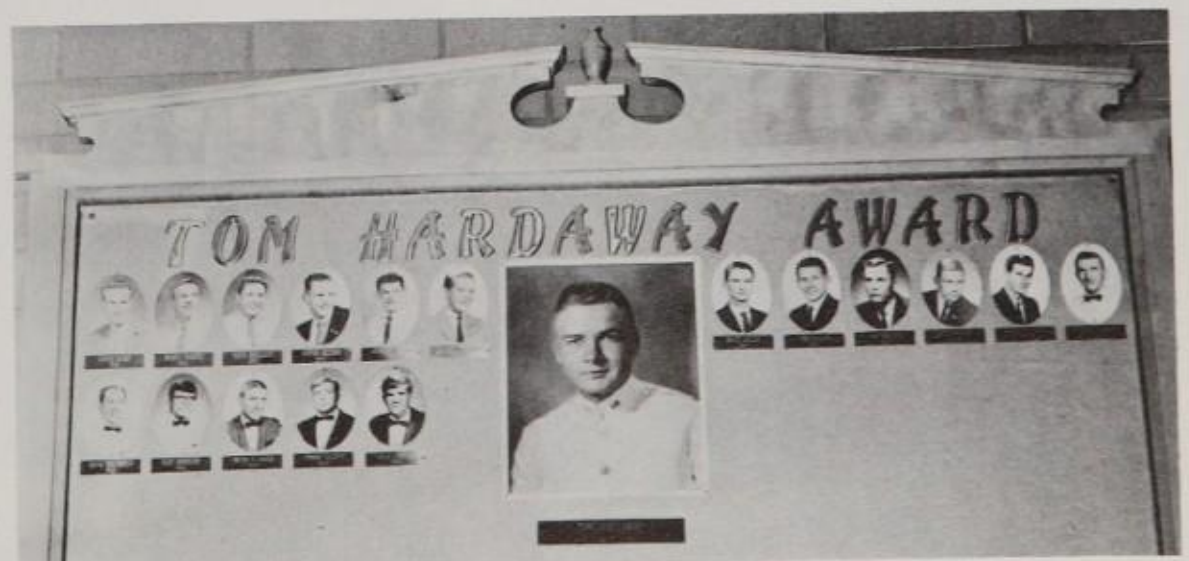

Odds and Ends

Concentrated dedication toward a goal,
 Self denial for future happiness,
 Forbearance of labor and pain,
 Values which breed recognition and honor.
 Each student earns his own esteem,
 Working toward self-realization and respect.
 Although in individual ways,
 Each soul and mind reaps its own awards;
 Quietly or boldly, the self-satisfaction
 Remains strong and concrete.
 Thus the joy given here represents
 More than one student's happiness.
 Esteem scopes beyond the pages of a book;
 All students are lauded
 Who have created worthwhile
 PATTERNS . . .

HONORS

Top Three Percent

Nancy Cragin
Valedictorian

Elizabeth Cottam

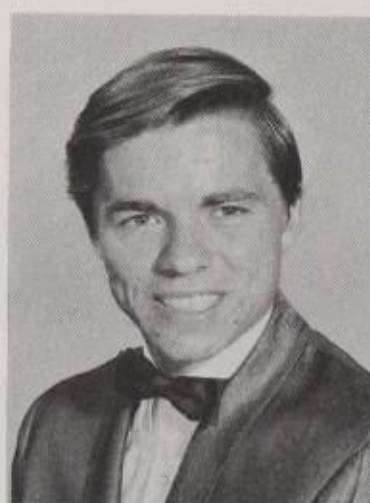

Jan Heesaker

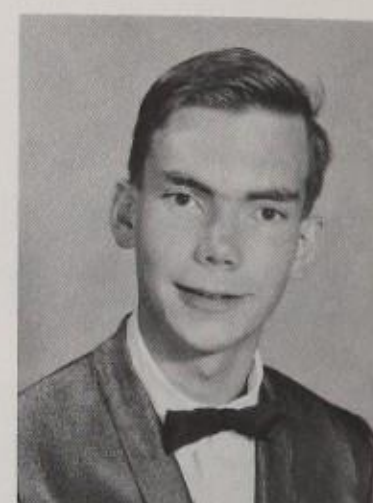

Kathy Kozak

Dean Larsen

Mark Leopardi

Larry McGee

These seniors, the top three percent of the graduating class of 1970, were honored at the top ten percent assembly. Given an impromptu question, they each discussed different facets of their school life. These twelve students taken from the top ten percent were ranked by the graduation committee and upon meeting the requirements, they were recognized for their exceptional scholastic success.

From the top three percent, the graduation committee named the valedictorian. Miss Nancy Cragin earned the honor this year. Being such a fine student dedicated to her education, she especially enjoyed and excelled in science and mathematics. Her school activities, however, also included the B'Ettes, the Science Club, the National Honor Society, and the Model United Nations, as well as her classroom experience.

Sterling Scholars

Twelve seniors who excelled in various academic fields, competed in the Sterling Scholar contest. Sponsored annually by the Deseret News and KSL television, the contest recognized scholars from the entire state. After the preliminary judging Box Elder was fortunate to have six students in the finals. This was the highest number of finalists in Box Elder's history.

The Tom Hardaway Award was given to a senior boy who exemplified the traits of Tom Hardaway, a graduate of Box Elder who attended West Point and who later gave his life in combat action. Besides being an accomplished athlete, Tom Hardaway was also named valedictorian. Eldon Larsen certainly earned the honor of this award. He truly was of the Tom Hardaway character.

Seniors nominated candidates for Outstanding Boy and Girl, and the faculty chose the winners. Teachers based their vote on the contributions the two students made to the school and to their class. Seniors nominated most often classmates who excelled academically and who participated in extracurricular activities. Pam Sederholm and Peggy Anderson were chosen Outstanding Girls and Karl Seashore Outstanding Boy.

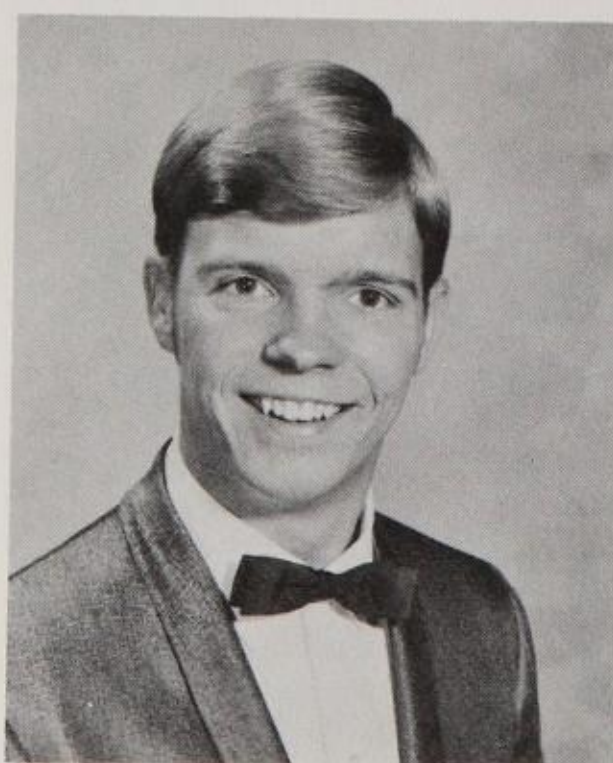

The top ten percent represented those seniors who achieved academically from their sophomore to their senior years. After ranking the entire senior class the graduation committee selected these seniors as the top ten percent of the graduating class. An assembly held on April 10, 1970 honored their accomplishments.

In Memoriam

Katie Turner, an outgoing and energetic student, died on March 3, 1970, of a brain hemorrhage. As a sophomore at Box Elder, she participated in many activities. She especially enjoyed sports and the outdoors, and she was one of the Girls Activities Association's most outstanding members. She received happiness from simple things and she enjoyed life. To her friends and family she was especially close, and she brought them great joy. Her death deeply affected all who knew her. Following is a poem written by one of her friends upon her death.

Katherine Marie Turner
Born: Aug. 14, 1954 - Died: March 3, 1970

*There is never a life without sadness,
There is never a heart free from pain;
If one seeks in this world for true solace,
He seeks it forever in vain.*

*So when to your heart comes the sorrow
Of losing some dear one you've known
Tis the touch of God's sickle at harvest
Since He reaps in the fields
He has sown.*

La Muerte

Puedo pensar horas y horas,
días y días

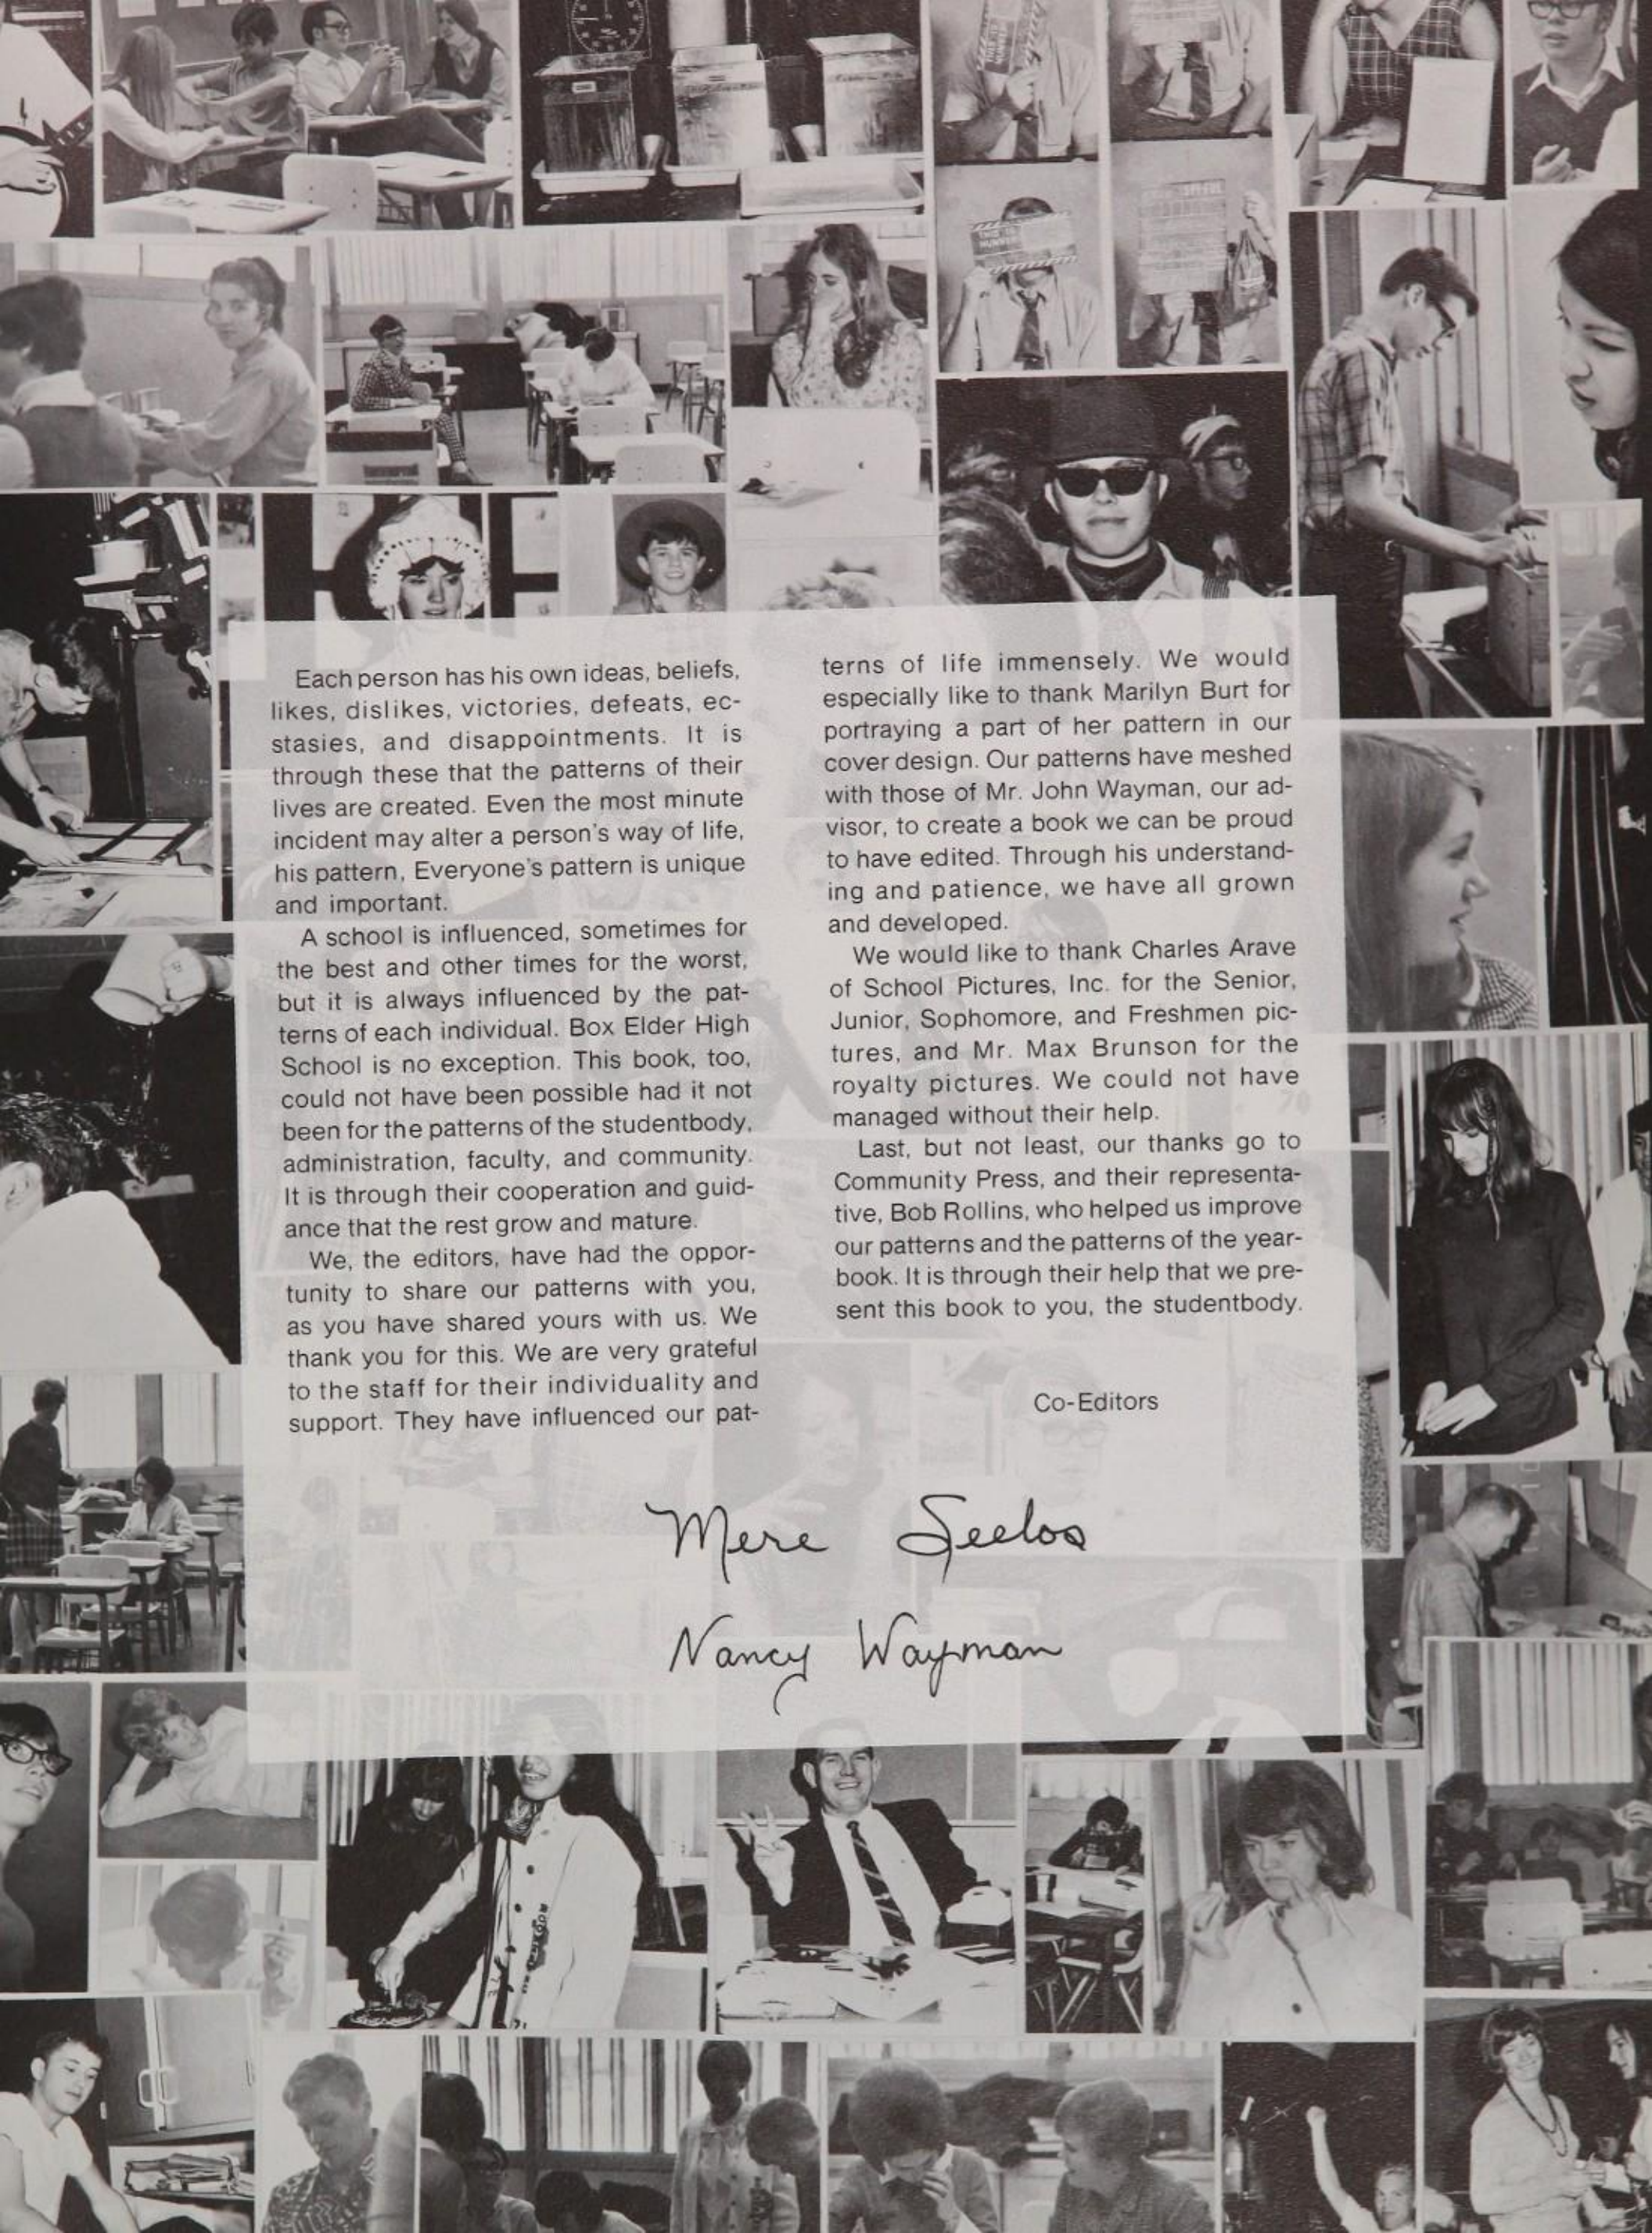

En la muerte . . .
Sin entenderlo.

¿Por qué hay la muerte? ¿Por qué? ¿Por qué?
Mi alma grita ¿Por qué?
Una amiga mía se murió.
No puedo verla jamás.
Una amiga mía ha salido.
¿Dónde estará ella?
Una amiga mía ha salido.
¿Qué puedo hacer ahora?

Quiero entender la muerte.
¿Qué será esta cosa?
Es una cosa común, una cosa real,
una cosa dura, una cosa mundial.
Sí, sí es esto . . . pero, ¿Es una cosa
del alma? ¿Se murió el alma?
No sé! No sé! No sé! . . .
Nadie sabe, Nadie puede ayudarme.
No tengo nada para consolarme.

Mi amiga ha muerto.
Adiós! Adiós! Hasta . . . Hasta . . .
¿Hasta cuándo?

Each person has his own ideas, beliefs, likes, dislikes, victories, defeats, ecstasies, and disappointments. It is through these that the patterns of their lives are created. Even the most minute incident may alter a person's way of life, his pattern. Everyone's pattern is unique and important.

A school is influenced, sometimes for the best and other times for the worst, but it is always influenced by the patterns of each individual. Box Elder High School is no exception. This book, too, could not have been possible had it not been for the patterns of the studentbody, administration, faculty, and community. It is through their cooperation and guidance that the rest grow and mature.

We, the editors, have had the opportunity to share our patterns with you, as you have shared yours with us. We thank you for this. We are very grateful to the staff for their individuality and support. They have influenced our patterns of life immensely. We would especially like to thank Marilyn Burt for portraying a part of her pattern in our cover design. Our patterns have meshed with those of Mr. John Wayman, our advisor, to create a book we can be proud to have edited. Through his understanding and patience, we have all grown and developed.

We would like to thank Charles Arave of School Pictures, Inc. for the Senior, Junior, Sophomore, and Freshmen pictures, and Mr. Max Brunson for the royalty pictures. We could not have managed without their help.

Last, but not least, our thanks go to Community Press, and their representative, Bob Rollins, who helped us improve our patterns and the patterns of the yearbook. It is through their help that we present this book to you, the studentbody.

Breda,

Well howdy, there is alot of kids who wrote in this that you maybe dont even know but thats life. Well sorry it took so long to write but - today is the last day of school. well how's life? I would have had Kevin write in this but he thinks hes to good to say any thing to me. His picture is pretty good its the first time they had been in color. Any way I was going to fill up two pages but I dont have much to say but Brenda I really miss you a whole lot. Are you coming back to Brigham well. I hope so well let me hear but do write back really soon and call me 723-6733 Lots of luck with your new boy friend

Love
